Blast
Clouds
A-Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States announced Tuesday it had detected radioactivity in the air as a result of Russia's big underground explosion Friday. It asked the Soviets for a "full explanation."

The announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission said "the amounts of radioactivity measured to date will not produce measurable exposures to persons." But in light of possible effects on the nuclear test ban treaty, Secretary of State Rusk called in Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to seek information on the test.

NO DETAILS

Aside from the fact that Mr. Dobrynin was asked for the "full explanation," there was no immediate report on details of his afternoon session with Mr. Rusk.

Underground tests as such are not prohibited under the test ban treaty. But U.S. officials said that since the treaty's big aim was to keep the atmosphere clear of nuclear debris, the Soviet blast technically might be a violation of the pact since radioactivity escaped from it.

The treaty was signed by the United States, Britain, Russia and more than 100 other nations in August, 1963. It specifically prohibits nuclear testing in the atmosphere, in space and underwater.

"INTERMEDIATE"

Friday's Soviet blast, in the Semipalatinsk area of Asia, was a monstrous one. The AEC Tuesday might estimate its explosive power in the "intermediate" range, equalling from 200,000 tons to 1,000,000 tons of TNT. The AEC statement said, "The United States detection system has now detected a certain amount of venting connected with the test."

"Venting" is the release of radioactivity into the atmosphere from an underground test.

OVER PACIFIC

U.S. officials said atmospheric radioactivity from the explosion was detected by U.S. air sampling over the Northern Pacific. Technically, they said, this would be a violation of the test ban treaty. But they said the United States would await further information before deciding whether to formally claim a violation.

U.S. officials said the venting could have been an accident, since it means that radioactivity from an underground explosion breaks through the surface into the atmosphere.

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill slept through the day Tuesday, clinging tenaciously to life while the Archbishop of Canterbury called for prayers for the great warrior "as he approaches death." (See Page 2, also.)

The 90-year-old statesman put up what doctors called an amazingly valiant fight for the fifth day.

Lord Moran, his lifetime friend and physician, announced shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday that Churchill had slept throughout the day with no appreciable change in his condition.

Out for Drive

Lady Churchill, maintaining an almost unceasing vigil, had asked the huge throngs of reporters, broadcasters and spectators outside the Churchill residence to disperse because the clamor and the television lights had become a severe strain.

Earlier in the day, Lady Churchill, 79, went for a drive for almost an hour. This was only the second time she had been out since last Friday.

Prime Minister Wilson postponed a visit to West Germany. He was to have left Thursday.

Lord Avon, who as Sir Anthony Eden succeeded Churchill as prime minister in 1955, visited the Churchill home for nearly half an hour Tuesday.

TORONTO (CP)—An inquest was ordered Tuesday into the death of Agnes Racz who died Tuesday after an anesthetic apparatus exploded while she was undergoing surgery in St. Michael's Hospital.

An autopsy showed Mrs. Racz, 45, of Clarkson, Ont., died of blast injuries to the lungs.

A mixture of oxygen and cyclopropane gas was being used when the explosion occurred Friday, causing a back-blast down the tubes from the containers into the patient's lungs. Cause of the blast is being investigated by the Ontario Fire Marshal's office.

ASHAHEKA, Idaho (AP)—A rifle-packing man was subdued Tuesday night after he shot a deputy sheriff serving an eviction notice and held off a dozen officers for 10 hours in his barricaded cabin.

Earl Phipps, 63, still clinging to his 30.06 rifle and carrying a bedroll, was surrounded by deputies and state police as he ran from his cabin when a bulldozer pounded down his front door.

Officers, with weapons drawn, disarmed him.

Phipps was taken to a state hospital at nearby Orofino.

Witness:

$60,000 FUND
FOR GRIT AID

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Masson, a self-styled militant Liberal, swore Tuesday that $50,000 or $60,000 was raised for the Liberal party election fund to prevent the extradition of Lucien Rivard, a suspect in a narcotics smuggling case.

He testified at the Dorion judicial inquiry that this information was given him by Robert Gignac, now charged with murder, and he passed it along June 22 to Raymond Denis, at that time executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay.

Masson, a hefty balding 35-year-old testified under the Canada Evidence Act, guaranteeing that his words would not be used to prosecute him except in case of perjury.

MEETING REFUSED

He said Denis, who left the government post about last Oct. 1, suggested Masson see Senator Louis Gelin, whom Masson described as the Liberal party treasurer.

He had tried to make an appointment with Senator Gelin, who had refused to see him after being told the matter involved a businessman caught up in a narcotics case.

'FERVENT LIBERAL'

Masson, who described himself as a "fervent Liberal" and chief Liberal organizer in Chamblay riding in 1960, told of at least 13 telephone calls or visits with Denis between June 22 and some time last August about the Rivard case.

Rivard is in Bordeaux Jail awaiting the decision of Canadian courts on legal efforts to prevent his extradition to the United States to face charges connected with dope smuggling for the Mafia crime syndicate. He was arrested June 19 at U.S. request.

RAISED $60,000

Mrs. Rivard, who burst into tears during testimony earlier in the day, has sworn she raised $60,000 cash from a gatekeeper, a grocer, an innkeeper and a bank within a week of her husband's arrest.

Political Unity

France, Germany
Forge New Plan

From Reuters-AP

PARIS (CP)—France and West Germany have agreed on a plan for relaunching talks for the setting up of a European political union, sources said Tuesday night.

The agreement came after three hours of talks between West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and French President Charles de Gaulle.

The plan, which it was understood will soon be submitted to the other European Common Market nations—Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—calls for experts to work out proposals and for a conference of the six foreign ministers some time in March.

REUNIFICATION

Both governments, it was learned, also will support a program for the further simultaneous development of the Common Market in the agricultural and industrial fields.

There also was a large measure of agreement on the conditions upon which an eventual reunification of Germany must depend, the sources said.

The two leaders were also expected to dwell at length on defence.

PLACE IN NATO

The issue focused on West Germany's place in a NATO or European nuclear shield—West Germany's relationship to a NATO nuclear force and to the budding French "force de frappe."

De Gaulle is urging West German support for a strictly "European Europe" which would have its own defence and foreign policies, fully independent of the United States, under the protection of the purely French nuclear deterrent. De Gaulle has pledged that the "force de frappe" would be placed at Europe's disposal, but still under French control and command.

But Talkers Join Balcer

Backbenchers Swing
Behind Diefenbaker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Backbench support for John Diefenbaker's continued leadership of the Progressive Conservative party piled up Tuesday in interviews with Conservative MPs.

But leading figures among the party's more articulate members joined the 10 Quebec Conservatives led by Leon Balcer in urging the party to hold a full-dress convention to resolve its internal dissension over leadership and policy.

CALLS DISGRACEFUL

Gordon Churchill, a staunch Diefenbaker supporter and the party's House leader in the Commons, said the way the MPs are sounding off to the press is disgraceful, and the issues should be settled in the privacy of a caucus meeting.

He was referring to a flurry of interviews given by Conservative MPs scattered across the country and the speeches some of them have made since Gordon Alken (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) said last week at Waterloo, Ont., both Mr. Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Pearson should quit as party leaders.

A survey by the Canadian Press showed 24 MPs supporting Mr. Diefenbaker's continued leadership and six wanting a new leader, one of the latter qualifying his remarks. Ten who were interviewed were non-committal or would not comment.

20 WERE OPPOSED

On the question of whether or not a full-dress convention should be held, 20 were opposed or said they saw no need for one. Nine joined the 10 Quebecers in the convention call. It was known, however, four and possibly six of the Quebecers continue to support Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership, even though they joined in the caucus statement calling for a convention.

Among non-Quebec MPs calling for a new leader in addition to Mr. Aiken and Douglas Harkness, the former defence minister who broke with Mr. Diefenbaker in 1963 on the nuclear arms issue, are R. G. L. Fairweather (Royal), Gerald W. Baldwin (Peace River), and Herbert Smith (Simcoe North). S. J. Enns (Portage-Neepawa) qualified his remarks in favor of a new leader.

There are 36 Conservatives in the 265-member Commons.

Mr. Churchill, MP for Winnipeg South Centre, said some of those who now are speaking out were silent in caucus meetings.

Dalton Won't Say—
'And Same to You'

TORONTO (CP)—Dalton Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, cautioned members of his party Tuesday to be silent on the leadership controversy.

"As far as I'm concerned, I have nothing to say at this time," he said. "I'd recommend the same to anyone who asks."

He also declined to say what procedures, if any, is being used to poll opinion within the party on whether John Diefenbaker should be replaced as leader.

The Quiet Revolution
In English Canada

By PETER DESBARATS
Last of a Series

For the last four years Canadians have been even more fascinated than usual by the idea that their country is falling apart.

Two symptoms are concerned here—separatism in Quebec and confusion in Ottawa. Quebec seemed to be drifting away from Canada, while English Canada itself drifted helplessly, no hand on the helm, no flag on the mast, toward the nightmare of annexation to the United States.

It is now becoming evident exactly the opposite was occurring. In the last four years, for the first time since Confederation, Quebec has moved of its own accord into the orbit of the other provinces. And all the provinces have moved into a tighter orbit around Ottawa.

There is more actual unity in Canada today than ever before.

This is the clear impression from recent interviews in Ottawa and six provincial capitals. Almost without realizing it, Canadians have been creating a new Confederation based on a new concept of national government.

The process is well advanced. Its implications are enormous.

The two symptoms which worried most Canadians, separatism and weakening of the central government, have been merely reverse images of twin developments which are the foundation blocks of the new Confederation.

Separatism in Quebec was an inevitable but secondary part of the quiet revolution in French Canada.

It would have been surprising if it had not emerged at a time when Quebecers were questioning almost all established institutions.

Of much greater importance is the fact that Quebec, while toying with separatism, in fact committed itself to a new destiny. This process began long before the new wave of separatism and reached the stage of concrete action after the League government took office.

It has been obscured for English Canada by the separatist score, but politicians in English Canada today are well aware of its importance.

Since 1960, Quebec has been going North American at a fantastic clip. It has realized the old road of defensive nationalism was leading French Canada toward oblivion.

It has accepted economic de-

development as an essential method of ensuring cultural survival.

But Quebec is not the only province with these goals. Every province today is aiming in the same direction.

And this has meant that Quebec, while remaining culturally distinct, has become almost like the others in ambition.

In this respect, Quebec's quiet revolution has been essential to the development of the new Confederation.

If it had not occurred, Canada might be in real danger.

If Quebec were as separate now as it was 10 years ago, we would be in serious crisis.

It would be serious because provincial co-operation is essential today. The current areas of primary importance—development of human and natural resources—are mainly provincial responsibilities.

But they involve resources which cannot be developed by any one province.

Rivers do not flow according to provincial boundaries. Populations are not immobile.

As all provinces came to a new appreciation of their interdependence, they realized the ultimate success of their own programs depended on the federal government.

Not only is the federal government involved in education, development of a natural resources, highway construction and other areas where federal and provincial responsibilities overlap, but its overall economic policies have a direct effect on regional or provincial growth.

For its own reasons, Quebec has been anxious to use its constitutional right to control development in certain fields, particularly education and social welfare.

This has given many Canadians the false impression that Quebec is the only province interfering with federal authority.

In fact, virtually all provinces now share the desire to participate in national policymaking because all are vitally affected by federal decisions.

The number of interprovincial and federal-provincial conferences has increased so rapidly in recent years that some commentators have worried about the rise of a new level of government.

Others have seen Quebec and other provinces gangling up to dangerously limit federal authority.

But there is another interpretation:

We are witnessing the creation of a new type of national government based on a consensus of provincial and federal opinion.

If it produces better national policies, it will help unify Canada.

This would appear more important than a theoretically strong Ottawa government.

The new method already has some impressive achievements to its credit—the municipal loan fund, youth allowances, student loans and an opening-up formula which is reasonably satisfactory to Quebec and the other provinces.

Prime Minister Pearson has moved cautiously and pragmatically in developing co-operative federalism.

But he has been basically sympathetic to the provinces' desire to regard Ottawa as a partner in their development rather than as a distant dictator.

He has warned that excessive centralization of authority in Canada "cuts across the basis of political consent on which our Confederation rests."

"A healthy federalism," he said last October, "is one in which the two levels of government each fulfill their own responsibilities and respect each other's, but they do so taking into account their mutual concerns."

Of course, a host of problems still faces the new Confederation. No one is certain how far the provinces should enter into national decision-making.

Prime Minister Pearson maintained: "Nothing has happened in the last 18 months that weakens federal authority."

But he also recognized: "Consultation always leads to a demand to participate in decisions."

"I remember John Foster Dulles saying something like that," he recalled. "He used to turn to Canadian officials and remark: 'You fellows always say that you want to be consulted, but what you really want is to tell us what to do.'"

The process of consultation with provinces already has reached into areas of basic national importance.

Already there are signs in some provinces that Parliament is regarded almost as unnecessary. A young civil service economist in western Canada said:

"The federal government has to listen to provincial governments because they are the voices of the people."

"They deal directly with the people of their regions, and they know what they need."

Will co-operative federalism founder on personality conflicts?

Right now there are remarkably harmonious relations between provincial leaders, despite the odd spat.

"Even the powerful provinces are vitally interested in keeping this country together," said Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick. "And I have faith in their good faith."

"Consultation among provinces isn't the answer to all our problems, but the advantages outweigh the disadvantages."

He said Gignac stated that if Rivard "fell into the hands of the Americans, they would convict him and sentence him to 30 years."

He and Gignac had agreed on $1,000 for Masson's expenses and a bonus for himself. A few minutes later they had talked with Mrs. Rivard who seemed distraught and not too clear about the charges against her husband. She had mentioned it was an extradition matter.

FEDERAL MATTER
When I found Mrs. Rivard couldn't give more details, I had to go into my (adjoining) office and the first thing that came to my mind was that extradition is a federal matter and came under the federal department of citizenship and immigration.

"I possibly phoned Ottawa to Raymond Denis."

"To ask for an appointment?" Asked commission counsel Andre Desjardins.

MET AT MOTEL
"Yes," Masson replied. Masson said they met at the Hull motel suite he shared with Gignac, who was introduced to Denis but left before their discussion. He had then informed Denis about Gignac saying the $50,000 or $60,000 could be made available.

Masson quoted Denis as saying extradition wasn't a matter for the immigration department but came under the justice department. Denis had agreed to see someone in the justice department the next day, June 23.

TOO BUSY
He'd awakened Gignac in the next room, told him Denis might have information the next day and that he and Denis were to meet for lunch.

He had met Denis for lunch the next day but Denis had been too busy that morning to do anything.

On his return to Montreal, he had reported on his meetings to Gignac and told him "I left everything in the hands of Raymond Denis."

Masson testified he was told by Gignac, cadaverous some-son, Rivard was being framed by "certain leaders" in the United States because Rivard wouldn't "go along with" them.

IN CUBA
He quoted Gignac as saying Rivard had been in the casino business in Cuba before the Castro revolution and would have been mixed up with people of this type.

Masson said that three days after Rivard's arrest he met Mrs. Rivard at Gignac's office, got $1,000 from her for expenses and drove with Gignac to Hull, Que., where Denis met him at his request.

The first thing he had done after talking with Mrs. Rivard was call his close personal friend Denis for an appointment.

Masson said Gignac, charged with capital murder in the Sept. 17 slaying of a nightclub doorman here, asked him if there was someone who could tell how serious the charges were against Rivard and the possibilities of Rivard eventually being ordered extradited to the United States.

EXPENSES
He said Gignac stated that if Rivard "fell into the hands of the Americans, they would convict him and sentence him to 30 years."

and are "fairly junior in the life of our party."

"I think it's a disgraceful way to conduct matters concerning internal party workings," he said. "This should be done in caucus, where a proper debate can be held, with both sides being heard, rather than sounding off here, there and elsewhere and using the press to carry their point of view."

"The party should come first, and not the personal feelings or ambitions of an individual MP."

Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West), former Speaker of the Commons, said it is unfortunate party members are "sounding off independently" on something that should be discussed in the privacy of the party's parliamentary caucus.

Lawrence Watson (Assinibois) said a leadership convention would serve no useful purpose. The Liberals, forming a minority government as a result of the April, 1961, general election, would call another general election if a Conservative convention were called now, leaving the Conservatives without a leader.

"The party would be a great deal better off if it devoted its time to preparing plans for the next general election than by getting into internal turmoil," commented Stuart Fleming (Okanagan-Revelstoke).

Dalton Camp of Toronto, president of the party, said he received the letter from the 10 Quebec members asking him to call an executive meeting to set a date for a convention. Mr. Balcer said this should be done before Parliament resumes Feb. 16.

Mr. Camp said he would consult the principal officers of the party. These are the executive officers of the senior party organization and the presidents of the women's, young people's, and student bodies. He is expected to have rounded up their views next week.

Churchill's Illness

Wilson Postpones Visit to Germany

LONDON AP—Prime Minister Wilson announced Tuesday the postponement of his visit to West Germany because of Sir Winston Churchill's illness.

The announcement said Wilson has decided it would be wrong for him to leave the country at such a time.

In Bonn, the West German government said it "regrets extraordinarily" the postponement of Wilson's visit but that it understands and respects the need for it.

LONDON (UPI)—A sad and subdued British House of Commons prayed quietly Tuesday for the "Prince of Parliament," Sir Winston Churchill.

Parliament re-assembled after its Christmas vacation on the eve of the 70th anniversary of its founding as a representative body.

LONDON (Reuters)—Mrs. Minnie Churchill, 24, expecting Sir Winston's third great-grandchild, is "quite satisfactory and continuing to remain under observation," a hospital spokesman said Tuesday.

The money had been borrowed for three months only and had to be repaid, she replied.

CASE 'SERIOUS'
During his testimony, Masson said at a meeting with Denis July 6 or 7 in Ottawa, Denis had explained procedures usually followed by extradition cases.

Denis had told him the Rivard case was serious and he didn't believe the minister of justice could go against a decision of the courts which probably would be to permit extradition of Rivard.

Masson said Denis didn't see the possibility of bail for Rivard. There had been no precise mention of Mr. Lamontagne.

Nottingham Law Not Alone In Wanting Robin Hood

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—A voice on the telephone told an Evansville police dispatcher, "My name is Robin Hood. Are you looking for me?" "No. But I believe the Sheriff of Nottingham is," answered the officer. Later Robin E. Hood, 23, Davenport, Iowa, surrendered at headquarters saying he was wanted in his hometown for car theft.

LOS ANGELES—Desiree Samara, 26, a Canadian-born film beauty, has been granted a divorce from actor Barry Sullivan, 32. "He was cold and unaffectionate," she testified. "He never hugged and kissed me."

LAS VEGAS—When Mrs. Maria Dokolas went to a party here she had her 175-pound Asian spotted leopard Rajah in her station wagon. With other guests, Linda Lee Pearson, 21, went to look at the animal. A car door was partly open. Rajah slipped through and attacked Miss Pearson. Hospital officials said later more than 100 stitches were needed for tooth and claw wounds. Now both Rajah and Mrs. Dokolas are being sought—so far in vain.

Sick Children Die on Trail

Heroic Trek in Vain

WATSON LAKE, Y.T. (CP)—A desperate 60-mile trek through a wilderness mountain pass failed last week to save the lives of two young children who became ill at a remote northern British Columbia camp site.

George Alex, 5, and his step-sister, Gloria Hayes, 15 months, died on the trail as their parents, Joseph (Lucky) Hayes, 24, and his wife, Emma, 23, attempted to carry them to a ranch where medical aid could be summoned by radio. Their food supplies had also run short. Nature of the illness was not disclosed.

A third child, a six-month-old boy, survived the trip, made in 30 below-zero weather. The parents walked on snowshoes. Two pack dogs carried meager food supplies, utensils and a sleeping bag.

Mr. Hayes suffered a frozen foot. He was released after treatment at a nursing station in Watson Lake, a community near the B.C.-Yukon border, about 750 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and their infant son were flown to safety from a trapper's cabin on the Kechika River, 120 miles southwest of Watson Lake.

BODIES CACHED
Two men left Tuesday for the Moody Pass district to recover the bodies of the two children, cached in trees by the parents to ensure animals did not disturb the bodies.

The Kechika River cabin is about 40 miles south of an area where Ralph Flores and Helen Klaben were plucked two years ago after surviving 49 days in the wilderness from a plane crash.

SAME PILOT
Chuck Hamilton of Watson Lake, the pilot who rescued Miss Klaben and Flores, flew Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and the surviving child to Watson Lake from Louis Boya's cabin.

The Hayes family moved into the region from Lower Post, B.C. last October when Mr. Hayes was given a contract to supervise horses during the

Ma's Speech Plans:

'Just Some Fun And Some Truth'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Margaret (Ma) Murray, 77-year-old outspoken editor of the Interior weekly Bridge River-Lillooet News, says she's been told not to embarrass Premier Bennett when she speaks at his testimonial dinner here Feb. 14.

Mrs. Murray, scheduled as the only speaker at the dinner, says she doesn't know how her record of criticism of the premier qualified her as guest speaker.

'SOME TRUTHS'
But, she said in an interview Monday, "I'm going to have some fun and I'm going to tell some truths. And Bennett will have to sit there with his mouth shut."

Mrs. Murray said the request not to embarrass the premier came from the organizers of the $18-a-plate dinner which will mark Mr. Bennett's record term of 12½ years in office.

Later Mrs. Murray told a meeting of young Liberals that she is going to tell Mr. Bennett he is a great man.

'DO DARNED CHICKEN'
"He is great enough to dictate to people, make them crawl, telling them lies and getting away with it and making them like it," said the veteran newspaper woman.

She said she believed a lot of people in Vancouver "are so darned chicken" that they called her down from Lillooet to speak at the dinner.

Gemini Trip Clears Way For Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—An unmanned Gemini spacecraft successfully survived a blistering sub-orbital test flight Tuesday, ending months of frustration for U.S. man-in-space plans and clearing the way for astronaut Virgil Grissom and John Young to ride a similar capsule into orbit in April.

After the spacecraft had been retrieved from the sea and secured on the deck of an aircraft carrier at the end of its 19-minute flight, Grissom told a press conference:

"There are a lot of happy people here. . . . But I doubt anyone is happier than John and I. We now see the road clear to our flight and we're looking forward to it."

Last Bodies Found In Avalanche Town

OCEAN FALLS (CP)—Searchers Tuesday found the last two bodies of seven people killed when a massive slide came down a mountain onto this pulp and paper town Jan. 12.

They were those of John C. Dicker, 36, and his wife, Ella, 32, whose duplex home was splintered by the avalanche.

The bodies of their two sons, Craig, 7, and Mark, 4, were found previously along with those of three other people who died in the disaster.

Officials said the searchers found the body of Dicker and his wife under piles of rubble created by the smashing of their home. They lay close to where their children had been found.

High Risers' Need Seen

Gas Station Plea Gains

After a three-month delay while aldermen wrestled with the tricky issue of another gasoline station for the high-rise area of James Bay, a decision was reached Tuesday.

The zoning committee will recommend to city council that the application of the Standard Oil Co. to build a station at Mendies and Toronto be approved.

NOT ZONED

Ald. Millard Mooney, council representative on the Planning and Advisory Commission, batted against approval, contending the area is not zoned for gasoline stations. He said:

"This gasoline station business is a continuous thorn in the side of city council."

"The oil companies bring in officials from Vancouver and elsewhere and will spend thousands of dollars fighting for a site."

Council will find James Bay is well serviced with filling stations when plans for the area mature, said Ald. Mooney.

"UNDER THE GUN"

"We will find ourselves right under the gun when this is granted."

"Imperial and other companies will be right in there wanting sites and we will not be able to turn them down."

The zoning committee motion urges that approval be conditional on the oil company agreement to conform to provisions of the bylaw now in preparation governing service stations.

STRONG CASE

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell said members of a Standard Oil Co. delegation who appeared before the zoning committee made a strong case for the station.

High rises alone have brought more than 800 new apartments into the area and all these people's cars have to be serviced.

Says Ex-Tory Bennett:

Party Will Commit Suicide If It Kicks Out Diefenbaker

Premier Bennett said Tuesday the national Progressive Conservative party will commit suicide in the next federal election if it ousts John Diefenbaker as leader.

As a former Conservative, the premier said, it saddens him to see the growing split in the Tory party.

"NEVER DEFEATED"

"The Tories federally have never been defeated," said Mr. Bennett. "They have committed suicide."

From the days of Robert Borden through successive leaders to George Drew and now John Diefenbaker the party has felt no sooner do they get a leader than they must get rid of him, the premier said.

"Now Fulton and the boy from Quebec (Balcer) have their hatchets out."

"LARGEST MAJORITY"

"Say what you like about Diefenbaker. He was the man who brought the Tories from 39 seats to the largest majority in the history of Canada's parliament."

"If anybody failed in the last house, it was not so much Diefenbaker as these lieutenants who are now trying to cut him down," said Mr. Bennett.

"BACK WITH 39"

Asked to comment on the disagreement among local Conservatives Monday night over a resolution of loyalty and support for Mr. Diefenbaker as national leader, the premier said:

"Without Diefenbaker in the next election the Tories will go back with 39 seats in the house."

For Crown Decision

Hankinson Case Delayed a Week

A one-week delay was ordered Tuesday in court action on a charge of unlawfully conferring a benefit on a government official.

The charge, against George K. Hankinson, was laid last fall naming suspended B.C. purchasing commissioner G. E. P. Jones as recipient of a benefit.

Recently acquitted by a higher court of accepting a benefit, Mr. Jones has not yet been reinstated in his job.

Further action in the Hankinson case hinges on whether the crown will appeal the Jones acquittal.

In city magistrate's court

Tuesday a one-week remand was ordered for Mr. Hankinson.

If the crown does not appeal the Jones verdict it is presumed the Hankinson charges will be dropped. In the event of an appeal the Hankinson case will probably be delayed until a decision is reached.

Bandmasters To Meet In Esquimalt

Bandmasters and music directors of Canada's armed forces are to meet in Esquimalt Jan. 23 to 29 for a series of professional discussions.

The talks, involving 28 senior musical personnel of the RCN, RCAF and Canadian Army, will be held in HMCS Naden, Esquimalt's naval barracks.

HMCS Naden is the location of a tri-service school of music, only establishment of its kind in Canada.

Lumber Plan Hit

Plans to convert an old store at 1625 Fort into a building materials outlet and lumber yard were strongly opposed Tuesday at a public works committee meeting.

Westcott Construction wrote to say the firm has a $2,000,000 investment planned for the area and would not welcome a lumber yard.

"I don't suppose we do want plies of sawdust and whining, high-powered saws right there, do we?" asked Ald. Cecil Parrott.

City manager Dennis Young said no application has been made for any kind of store or lumber yard or mill as yet.

It might be possible, he said, to work out some sort of retail outlet where packaged lumber and materials could be sold.

Even Fans Come Out Winners

Trotters Sports Best Bet

Here's a sure thing. Bet Harlem Globetrotters over New York Nationals in tonight's basketball game at Memorial Arena.

Here's another sure thing. Nobody who attends will really care who wins.

The Globetrotters, who have won about a thousand games against one loss in the last three and a half years, don't have victory as their main objective when they take to the floor each night. They're out to entertain.

This admirable objective has been met in 38 years of world travel. A conservative estimate is that they've entertained and played before more than 60,000,000 people.

Other millions have seen them on TV and in two full-length movies. A third movie is in the planning stage.

This group broke three world basketball attendance records in the 1951 season

—36,102 in the Rose Bowl, 51,187 in a soccer stadium in Brazil and 75,000 in the Berlin Olympic Stadium.

They sold out 10 straight nights in the Lenin Sports Palace in Moscow.

Tonight's crowd in Memorial Arena should be more than 4,500. The Trotters can usually count on that many in Victoria.

The fans should get their money's worth. Besides the Trotters' game, they'll see six variety acts, headlined by Peg-Leg Bates. Table tennis champions, jugglers, acrobats, etc., will be featured before the game and at half time.

Victoria Haida Chiefs and Victoria Chinooks will play an exhibition game starting at 8:30. The main show starts at 9 with Trotters' famed musical Sweet Georgia Brown warmup.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

The Sooke River is filled with big tackle-busting boulders.

We know, because on Saturday we floated about four miles of the Sooke from the Potholes down to the picnic grounds where All Sooke Day celebrations are held.

It was an interesting 3 1/2-hour boat trip which brought some exciting moments as we dodged about in boulder-filled runs, drifted quietly through still pools, twice had to portage around boiling river runs, once had to lower the boat by rope through a rough stretch of water, and saw the spawning beds where a fine run of spring salmon is being rehabilitated by careful conservation measures.

The river was crystal clear and on the low side and we tried to outsmart the steelhead by using light eight-pound test leaders.

It didn't prove so smart. We lost more than a dozen hook-ups with the light tackle, and we never hooked a fish. But we learned a lot about the Sooke River, which because most of its banks are private property has been largely a mystery to us.

There are few spots on the Sooke that an angler can fish without trespassing. Even around the first Potholes where most steelheaders fish is really private property, although there are never any objections to anglers fishing there.

The rest of the river is pretty well all private property, fenced and/or inhabited. It is a matter of how much gall one has to trespass or of making friends with riverfront property owners if you want to fish much of the Sooke River.

We took three boats for the river drift. Frank Baker and Charlie Sutton were alone in little punts. We went with Willie Duman in a 10-foot fibreglass boat.

As usual we were a little apprehensive about the trip, as we are about any river drift, especially when it is our first time on a river, and what is ahead is unknown.

Launching the boats just below the Potholes was easy. At that point there are several good pools upstream that can be fished from shore and we were tempted to try them. But river exploration was the business of the day and we pushed out in the boats.

Almost immediately we hit a fast run which gave us reason to wonder what would be ahead.

Then there was a slow run that looked pretty fishy, but the river was really too slow to fishing and we saw no evidence of a fresh run in the river. In fact we saw only one steelhead in the entire drift, and it was darkening up a little. We saw a couple of anglers on shore cleaning what looked to be a dark salmon.

Dry part of a Sooke River drift is the big boulders that show up midstream. Luckily the river was just about the right height for a drift. We could spot the boulders by white water rushing over them, but we had to be on the alert.

Whenever we spotted white water ahead we rowed across the river so that we would drift just by it. It was startling to look over the side of the boat and see the water breaking on these huge boulders, most of them about the size of a kitchen table. They were mostly just about out of the water, except the rushing water covered them by spilling up and over them.

It wasn't the kind of river drift we would like to make often, and we wouldn't care to make it in wild water which is the time Sooke River provides the best fishing.

But we did get a chance to study the river, pick out the best-looking spots and mark how they could be reached from shore.

The East Branch of the Sooke joined the main river in a tumbling torrent. There are a dozen or more exciting fishing runs and pools, but the Sooke struck us as a river where the fish run into it and out again, a river that you have to hit when the fish are there. It doesn't appear to be the same as the Cowichan, with a big resident population, where every time you cast you feel you have a chance of catching a fish.

Fernberton Pool, half a mile or more above the highway bridge, is a fabulous looking pool which is a consistent steelhead and trout producer, with sloping sandbars, wide river pools and deep banks, everything an angler seeks in a river. But it is one that must be approached carefully when in a boat, or else the fish will be spooked.

It is really two or three pools, as the river bends in an S-turn, then there is a long run through a bit of a canyon on one side, followed by grassy tidal river banks right through to the picnic grounds and the highway bridge.

From the Fernberton Pool all the way to the Sooke Basin river mouth can provide some pretty fine salmon cutthroat fishing at the right tides and right seasons.

Skaters Reach Finals

Victoria will be represented by four members on the British Columbia team at the Canadian figure skating championships in Calgary next month.

Named to the team following B.C. sectional championships at Vancouver last weekend were Jim and Mary-Ellen Hibak, who will compete in the senior dance event, and Lorraine Hynes and Richard Madden, junior dance.

Other members of the B.C. team named for the Canadian championships and their home clubs are as follows:

Senior ladies—Karen Magnusson, Judy McLeod, Cynthia Tilmann and Cathy Lewis, North Vancouver.
Junior men—Steve Hutchinson, Vancouver-Kerrisdale, David Coffin and Joey Summerfield, North Vancouver.
Junior pairs—John and Betty McKinnon, North Vancouver.
Senior dance—Don Phillips and Joan Graham, Vancouver-Capilano.
Junior dance—Don Phillips, Joan Graham, Bryce Swenson and Dale Swenson, Vancouver-Capilano.

Leafs Take Third Spot Nine Points from Lead

By JIM TANG

"Leafs may have to be their own Santa Claus" is a Daily Colonist sports-page headline said on the morning of Dec. 22, and it did indeed look like a bleak Christmas for Victoria Maple Leafs and their fans.

The Leafs were just back home from a road trip on which they had lost four of five games and the Western Hockey League tables displayed them right at Lou Jankowski, one of at least four players who deserved player-of-the-game honors, came out of a slump to give the Leafs a two-goal start before the game was five minutes old and goalkeeper Al Miller and a defence which now rates as about the best in the league took it from there.

Jankowski, who scored 14 goals in his first 22 games, then got only four in the next 20, cashed a rebound and a quick passout as Seattle-defenceman Don Ward and Seattle-goalie Jim McLeod drew successive penalties. The goals, 10 for the season against Seattle, gave Jankowski his eighth consecutive 20-goal season.

Steve Witluk connected with a backhand, which seemed to deflect past a McLeod who grew increasingly disgusted with a defence which missed suspended Larry Zeidel and injured Mo Mantha, got it to 3-0 before the first period was over.

Totems made their bid as soon as the second period opened, and succeeding in causing considerable disorganization for six minutes. But Miller again came up with the clutch stops to take the edge off hope.

CABOM SHOT

A point shot which seemed to deflect off a Victoria defenceman but was credited as caroming off Bill MacFarland was all that wrecked Miller's second shutout. But it came late in the second period and the Leafs immediately took charge again. Larry Keenan left no penalties by scoring his 26th goal in the seventh minute of the third period and Danny Bellisle, currently the club's hottest scorer, made no mistake when suddenly confronted with a stray puck and an open net.

BIG EFFORT

It was perhaps as impressive an effort as the Leafs have turned in this season. Bill Shvets and Claude Labrosse and Sandy and Fred Hucul looked like a defence should. Miller continued to sparkle and the return to early season results by the John Sleaver-Jankowski-Redahl line all helped make the muscle provided by HMCS Naden band sound sweeter than usual for the 3,656 fans.

Clay Picks Chuvalo

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Cassius Clay got his first look at George Chuvalo Tuesday and predicted the Toronto heavyweight would knock out Floyd Patterson within five rounds in their scheduled 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden Feb. 1.

The world heavyweight champion was obviously impressed after observing Chuvalo in a workout and promised the Canadian champion a shot at the title if he should score a convincing victory over the former titleholder.

"That man is strong," Clay said after watching Chuvalo spar.

"He's tougher than I thought and he hits sharp. It looks like I better get to camp right away."

"I have nicknamed him the Washerwoman. From what I observed today, I'm going to change it to Washerman. I think he'll scare the Rabbit out of the ring."

Rabbit is the nickname Clay has applied to Patterson.

ALREADY HIT hard because of injuries, Toronto Maple Leafs of National Hockey League lost coach Punch Imlach yesterday when he was ordered to make up a week of jury duty from which he had previously been excused.

President of the Boston Bruins, Wes Adams, will suggest to NHL that in future, players vote for all-star team selections.

Sports writers and broadcasters named the Olympic swim team as the outstanding United States team of 1964 in the Associated Press year-end poll.

PROFESSIONAL WRESTLER Yusef Eric's death was apparently suicide, coroner Arthur Shinnall of Cartersville, Ga., ruled.

Three pressure putts by Wes Ellis won him the San Diego Open golf championship following an extra-hole playoff with Billy Casper.

Outdistancing the rest of the field, Toronto's Bill Crothers equalled the Knights of Columbus meet record of 1:19 flat in winning the 600-yard event.

CANADIAN WOMEN'S high jumping champion, Diane Geras of Trail, says she may miss the 1965 track and field season because of ankle injury suffered last August.

One of the world's most promising long-distance runners, Gerry Lindgren of Spokane, has entered Percy Williams International meet in Vancouver, Feb. 20.

A rink skipped by Mickey Downes of Dawson Creek, a competitor in last year's Canadian women's curling championships, was eliminated in local playoffs this year.

CHICAGO CUBS have traded outfielder Billy Cowan to New York Mets for former Cub George Altman.

Ring magazine named welterweight champion Emilio Grifflin its fighter of the year for 1964.

Physician for the New York State Athletic Commission for 25 years, Dr. Vincent A. Nardella, 78, has died following a long illness.

Navy has announced the appointment of Bill Elias, football coach at Virginia the last four seasons, as new head coach of the middies.

EARLIEST START ever is slated for the Eastern Canadian Football Conference, with Montreal Alouettes playing Hamilton Tiger-Cats Aug. 6 in Hamilton.

Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Conference had their most successful season in 1964, showing a profit of $14,487.

Seven past National Football League players have been named to the U.S. pro football hall of fame. They are Otto Graham, Sid Luckman, Bob Waterfield, Steve Van Buren, Paddy Driscoll, Guy Chamberlain and Dr. Daniel Fortmann.

Cassius Fails as Bus Driver

Cassius Clay may indeed be "the greatest," but he isn't the greatest bus driver in the world. He put busload of New York writers in ditch approaching George Chuvalo's training camp Tuesday. Rugged scribes, all uninjured, walked last mile.—(AP)

League Welcomes Cowichan

DUNCAN—The Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League has promised to "welcome with open arms" the new Cowichan Minor Canadian Football Association, Cowichan group president Mel Massie said Tuesday.

He said Island league president Les Rathle of Nanaimo has promised that the new group will be invited to the next league meeting.

Mr. Massie also said 74 players, age up to 19, have applied for places on the new association's team. Training will start in June and the first game will take place Aug. 15. City council will be asked to help provide a playing field.

- '65 Beaumont is a genuine, honest-to-goodness low-price car (It costs much, much less than its luxurious looks suggest)
- '65 Beaumont is sized right in the middle between big and little (It'll fit your garage and park with ease)
- '65 Beaumont is beautifully styled and luxuriously appointed (Just look. Now you see why most people think it's higher priced)
- '65 Beaumont is made by General Motors (So you know it's packed with all kinds of value)
- '65 Beaumont is sold by your Beaumont-Pontiac-Buick dealer (He's a good reliable man to do business with)

'65 Beaumont is a very remarkable car indeed . . . big enough inside to take mom, dad and a gaggle of small fry . . . yet small enough to shoehorn into the tightest parking spot. It has the kind of headturning beauty that gathers a crowd, yet it's responsive and agile as a hard-muscled sports car. You can pack it with exactly the power you like for your kind of driving. Pick the 120 hp Six . . . it'll give you outstanding economy, without being the slightest bit stingy on performance. And it's just one of 5 Beaumont engines available. Biggest being the 300 hp V8, giving you all the skedaddle you could ever wish to put your toe to. One more thing. Beaumont has a wide range of body styles. There are 12 models in 4 series . . . including 3 completely different convertibles. All of which proves quite conclusively that '65 Beaumont would make a remarkably good choice for your next automobile.

Car Victim Tossed Nine Feet

Seventy-three-year-old Annie McVean, Beacon Lodge, was thrown nine feet after being hit by a car while she was crossing Blanchard at McCune Tuesday. Driver of the car, Alfred Dandoff, 77, of 1982 Chestnut, helped Mrs. McVean into his car and took her to St. Joseph's Hospital. She was in satisfactory condition in hospital with chest, hip, elbow and knee injuries and was to be kept in overnight for observation.

City Yachts Take Top Honors

Royal Victoria Yacht Club won four of five team races in competition with the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association in Cadboro Bay Sunday. Thirty-two Davidson and El Toro dinghies took part. Fifty boats participated in the individual races, one for each club. RVYC winners were Ed Cushing, Davidson, and David Anstey, El Toro. RCNSA winners were John Mallison, Davidson, and Robin Spear, El Toro.

Finals of the Dominion Drama Festival will probably be held in McPherson Playhouse, from May 16 to 21, 1966.

An invitation will be sent this week by Mayor R. B. Wilson and indications were, at a meeting of city council recreation committee Tuesday, that the festival executive will accept. The city will collaborate with the provincial government in the enterprise, Mayor Wilson told aldermen, and other Greater Victoria municipalities will be asked to help act as hosts for the theatrical companies.

Mayor Wilson said that he had been corresponding with R. E. MacDonald, executive secretary of the festival in Ottawa. He indicated that the invitation will be followed by an acceptance.

GRANT LIKELY
It is expected that the provincial government will make a grant toward the festival. The mayor said that there was a possibility of a festival deficit but it would probably not exceed $3,000.

The adjoining municipalities might be asked to help defray any loss, the mayor said, but it would not be large.

Organizations Unite

Massive Bus Fare Protest Aim of District Seniors

Fifteen senior citizens' organizations are joining in a massive protest against B.C. Hydro bus fares, which opens today. The sponsors hope to get more than 7,000 names.

The joint council of the Silver Threads Service met Tuesday to organize distribution of petitions seeking a reduction in fare for pensioners and other older people.

There will be two booths, manned by senior citizens. One will be at the Silver Threads Centre, 643 Broughton, the other in the Douglas Street rotunda of city hall.

NO OBJECTION

Mrs. Catharine Horne, executive director of Silver Threads, said Tuesday that no official objection of the petition had been given by city hall but no objection was made to the setting up of a booth in the rotunda.

"These old people need this reduction in bus fares," said Mrs. Horne. "It is an important, even vital, matter to them and we are going to make an all-out effort with this petition."

YEARLY PASS

The petition asks for a yearly pass, priced at $5 for all old age pensioners and for those past the age of 65 who receive social assistance. Existing adult fare is 20 cents cash.

Not only senior citizens were being asked to sign this petition, Mrs. Horne said, but any and all who are interested.

The booths in city hall and on Broughton Street will be manned from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day and will remain open until everyone interested has had a chance to register a protest.

The Silver Threads Service makes 10 points on behalf of the pensioners.

Most older people are forced to use buses even for short trips because they cannot drive.

FIXED INCOMES

Their incomes are fixed. Elderly people must move about or they fall quickly.

By nature they use public transportation only in slack periods because they cannot afford. Rates, high for many in the past, are now impossible for most.

Lower rates will encourage more to travel.

DOWNTOWN CENTRES

Added to these were the fact that most centres for the elderly are downtown, shopping is better and the increase in fares will make it impossible for most to travel to the downtown areas.

A possible tie-up with Vancouver old age pensioners' organizations was envisioned by Mrs. Horne who said that if this were accomplished thousands more could be added to the petitions. Represented at Tuesday's organization meeting were old age pensioners and senior citizens groups from Brentwood, Sooke, Metcalm, Victoria, Langford.

Fire Doused At Source

A Saanich woman acted as her own fire brigade Tuesday when a waste basket in her house ignited and set a window drape burning.

Summoned to the home of Mrs. Nora Lindsay, 3222 Santa Clara, a pumper from No. 3 Elk Lake station found the blaze had already been doused single-handed by Mrs. Lindsay.

"I just grabbed a bucket and threw lots of water," she said.

By IAN STREET

The session starting Thursday will see the birth of B.C.'s Dynamic Society.

We have Premier Bennett's word for that.

But it also seems certain to produce heated debate from opposition members who believe that it takes, in the words of Opposition leader Robert Strachan, more than a couple of power projects to create a dynamic society.

Mr. Bennett says it will shift the economy of the province "into a different gear" and the budget, expected Feb. 5, gives him a commanding position on the field of battle.

The premier would not give so much as a hint at a press conference Tuesday as to what can be expected in the throne speech and the budget.

Premier Bennett Gives His Word

Session to See Birth of 'Dynamic Society'

But he did say that the government's scheme for the Dynamic Society will "unfold on many fronts."

No Equality

Mr. Strachan argues that no society can be dynamic until there is equality of opportunity in education, until the economic benefits of automation are recognized, the blight of social welfare is lifted, penal system reorganized, and adequate health facilities are available to everyone.

All of these things are lacking in B.C. now, says Mr. Strachan. And in order to provide them the government is going to have to pass on more benefits from the booming economy to the people.

The Opposition leader, who spent all day Tuesday in caucus with the other NDP members, will continue the strategy-planning sessions today.

Hottest Topic

Due to begin their two-day caucus sessions today are the 23 Social Credit MLAs and the five Liberals.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault has also indicated that his party will help make this a lively session. He picked social welfare as the hottest topic and added that the Bank of B.C. will probably be the sleeper.

Mr. Bennett smiles benignly and says this will be a good session.

Well Balanced

It will be good because it is well balanced. The government's 33 members in the 52-seat house provide a majority that will get through a full program of legislation.

And the 19 opposition members are sufficient to provide "a good debating force" in the house, the premier says.

The premier doesn't allow sentimentality to cloud his vision of political reality.

He told reporters at a press conference that Mr. Strachan and Mr. Perrault along with B.C. Tory leader E. Davis Fulton, represent the "reactionary forces of both the right and the left."

Two Victories

It was in opposition to these forces that B.C. won the "two great victories" of the Peace and Columbia which laid the foundations of the Dynamic Society.

Now, he said, even the governor of the Bank of Canada, Louis Rasminsky, recognizes that B.C. is booming.

He quoted Mr. Rasminsky from the Financial Times as saying that B.C. typifies the resource boom in Canada.

Lively Session

"He's a pretty good witness," said Mr. Bennett.

The premier predicted that all citizens in B.C. will soon feel the effects of the Dynamic Society, a phrase he coined several months ago.

He said he could not anticipate events, but added he is expecting a lively and interesting session.

Fiscal Year

The government's plans for the next fiscal year will be outlined Thursday afternoon in the throne speech read by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes at the opening of the session.

What follows in the next eight to 10 weeks will be a drawn-out and often rancorous debate that is bound to produce surprises from both sides of the house.

Women Electors Plan Meeting

The Association of Women Electors of Greater Victoria will hold its annual meeting at 6:15 p.m., Jan. 26, in the St. John Ambulance auditorium, 911 Pandora.

Guest speaker at a dinner preceding the meeting will be Don South, director of regional planning. His subject: The Limitations of Planning.

They'll Miss Pageantry

While hundreds of Victorians stand outside the legislature Thursday afternoon watching the pageantry surrounding the opening of the legislative assembly, hundreds more will be jockeying for seats in the public galleries inside.

There is room in the two public galleries for only about 200 people. There are no reservations and admission will be on a first come, first served basis.

Those who do manage to get seats there, and the nearly 500 invited guests on the floor of the chamber and in the speaker's and ladies' galleries, will have to miss the pomp and ceremony outside because they have to be seated before the official party enters the chamber.

The 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, will have an honor guard and band at the legislative buildings, and four gun detachments of the 5th (B.C.) Inf. Med. Battery, RCA militia unit will fire a 15-gun salute near the Causeway.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will arrive at 2:45 p.m. and inspect the QOR.

He will then be greeted by Premier Bennett on the steps of the legislative buildings.

3,000 GUESTS
When the legislature is assembled, Premier Bennett will go into the House and send for the lieutenant-governor to deliver the speech from the Throne.

After the speech from the Throne, Premier and Mrs. Bennett and the executive council and their wives will be hosts at a reception in the Empress Hotel for 3,000 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearkes will attend the reception at the Empress. That evening they will give a state ball at Government House.

Jersey Club Elects Hoole
The Saanich 4-H Jersey Calf Club has named Reg Hoole its president for 1965. Mr. Hoole and other officers were elected at the club's January meeting, held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judy Wright, 2600 Lamont, Saanichton.

These Homes Aren't Hatracks

By JACK FREY

Home must be more than just a place to hang your hat. At least it is for children from broken homes in Greater Victoria who have no loved ones to live with.

They need substitute homes with substitute parents, where their shattered lives will have a chance to mend before they become adults.

This was the problem faced by the Family and Children's Service, says Gordon Wright, executive director.

It would have been easy to buy an old barn and convert it into a military type institution for these children—but it would have been a terrible mistake.

Instead of using institutions, the service experimented with developing small group homes where six to eight youngsters can live with substitute parents much the same as they would in an ordinary home.

The experiment was successful enough that two more group homes for boys are planned—one sponsored by the council for social service of the Anglican Church in the Diocese of B.C. and the other by the Family and Children's Service.

The Anglican council is considering plans to raise $35,000 to acquire a house which would accommodate eight boys from about 8 to 14 years.

The Family and Children's Service is about to set up a group home for eight adolescent boys up to 17 or 18 years of age, Mr. Wright said Tuesday.

The Anglican group's interest is most commendable, said Mr. Wright, and the project will mean much more coming from the community itself than it would if the provincial government bought a building for the children.

The Family and Children's Service has a big job, and it will keep growing with population expansion.

With a $800,000 annual budget, it is paying to care for about 350 children from Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Central Saanich.

It also offers child care for another 100 children living with relatives and friends, and provides family counselling service.

All the service's child care cost is paid by the provincial government, plus 75 per cent of administrative costs.

The children's troubles are caused mostly by home breakdowns, or desertion by a parent, and some are children of unmarried parents, said Mr. Wright.

If a child cannot live at home or cannot be placed for adoption, he may find his way into a foster home. Mr. Wright said:

"This is where we have trouble—foster parents do sometimes leave the area, and sometimes they just stop being foster parents."

"It isn't working out—children move from one place to another and every move is damaging to the foster parents and the children, too."

"The foster-parent system is not ideal, but it is better than any orphanage."

"The group home is our attempt to provide stability and provide a family unit instead of an institution."

In addition to the planned new group homes, the service already has several other group homes for children who cannot be cared for in foster homes.

Twelve boys and girls younger than 14 are cared for in a home on Carey Road, six boys younger than 12 live on Acton Street, six girls up to 18 live in a home on Glasgow Avenue which was bought and furnished by the Victoria Kiwanis Club, and 21 emotionally disturbed children 8 to 12 years in the Seven Oaks treatment centre on Hensington Road.

Garden Notes

Try Hand at Grapes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

It is rather surprising to me that more of our local gardeners don't try their hand at growing some grapes. Our backyard gardens may be too small to accommodate a full-size plum or cherry tree, but almost every plot has a fence of some kind, and where you have a fence, a wall, an arbor or a trellis, you can grow a few grape vines with very little encroachment on the space of the garden proper.

Grape vines are not very expensive to buy—most plant nurseries will sell you strong two-year-old specimens for around a dollar each. The vines are highly ornamental—there isn't anything better for covering an unsightly fence—and the crop will provide not only plenty of luscious fresh grapes in season, but grape juice, jam, jelly, grape conserve and wine.

A grape vine needs no "husband," so even one single vine will produce fruit without any pollination problems. No special soil enrichment is needed—in fact, the famous grape-growing districts of Spain and Portugal are noted for their poor, hungry, gravelly soil. Grapes need plenty of sun, though, and are bountiful for water when the fruit is swelling, although they resent soggy, poorly drained ground where puddles lie in winter.

In ordering your vine roots, think first how you plan to use your crop. If your object is mainly fresh table grapes, plant three or four different kinds which ripen their berries at different times through the late summer and fall. This will spread the cropping over quite a long period of time. On the other hand, if you want to process your grapes, better stick to one kind so you will have a lot of grapes to harvest in one go. In planning how many vines you can accommodate, figure on a spacing of seven feet between vines along the length of your fence, starting four feet from the end.

Some good ones for our climate are Fredonia, our earliest black grape ripening in September. Campbell's Early, another black, follows about two weeks later. Island Belle is later still, a hardy and reliable black grape.

Brighton, about the best of the red-skinned varieties, is the only one of our local grapes that is self-sterile, requiring another kind nearby for pollination, so do not plant it alone. The flavor is excellent.

Portland, Emerald and Ontario are all good white varieties—actually a pale green but known in the trade as "whites." Perlette and Delight are seedless grapes, reputed to be doing well here although I haven't had any personal experience with them.

In most garden books, the instructions for pruning a grape vine are so complicated that many home gardeners become confused and simply throw up their hands, allowing their vines to go their own way without any pruning at all. This is bad business, for grape are seldom more than a pinch of con feathers if they are not pruned regularly. Actually, it is better to be brave and hack away at your vines as best you can rather than to say "I don't know how" and neglect them.

I will be giving specific directions on grape pruning in a future article, but to summarize briefly, the canes you want to save are of the previous year's growth, 5 to 8 feet long, about as thick as an ordinary pencil or just a bit thicker, and fairly short-jointed. The buds near the center of such a horizontally-trained cane produce more fruit than those near the base or at the tip, so the tips are shortened to leave around 10 buds. Remove all unnecessary old wood, and thin out some of last year's growth where it is too thin or where it is causing overcrowding and congestion.

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica — Maj. Douglas Vaughan, who owns and operates a 1,500-acre banana and citrus plantation in the green hills above Ocho Rios, is a bushy-browed, tough, lean, outspoken character, the very model of an ex-officer from Her Majesty's regulars and one of the last survivors of a vanishing breed—the pukka sahib.

The world once teemed with Major Vaughans, who lived an opulent and spacious life in the outposts of empire in India, Malaya, Kenya, Ceylon, the South Seas and the West Indies.

They lived in huge houses with great swarms of native servants, drinking too much on huge verandas, chasing brown and black girls, playing polo and cricket, and remaining indomitably, almost excessively, English.

I asked him what drew him to Jamaica, and he said in a pregnant phrase, "Process of elimination."

"With currency restrictions the way they are, I had to live somewhere in the sterling area. Well, East Africa is not hospitable to English planters anymore. Zanzibar is gone. Australia is too far. Canada is too cold. The news is not good from Malaysia.

"All the other islands in the West Indies, if you take a 10-minute walk, you fall into the sea. I like space, so that leaves Jamaica."

We were seated on his veranda, which gave a splendid view of his domain, a sea of parrot green banana trees, shaded and protected by the dark green palms growing thick on the cool hills.

The rooms are airy, high-ceilinged, and huge, with great fanlight doors with lovely brass locks and hinges and beautiful floors of dark wood.

The major's bedroom with its vast double bed is enormous. And the bathroom, my God, the bathroom, carpeted, mirrored, with its recesses and cabinets and dressing tables and dressing tables, sideboards, chairs, cabinet. From the veranda, it's all his small apartment.

The dining room is roughly an acre of polished mahogany he's got a lot of. But there are

SHEILAH GRAHAM Reports

Director Wins Point, Loses Gina

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Gina Lollobrigida wanted to do it her way, but director Lee J. Thomas preferred his way. And it looks as though Gina will not be in Lee's Return From The Ashes, with Max Baer and Elizabeth Taylor.

Richard Burton returns to Broadway next season in Coriolanus. But before that and after Virginia Woolf, he makes a movie in Italy of The Taming of the Shrew with wife Elizabeth Taylor, and Zeffirelli directing.

Carroll Baker will have six individual boy friends in the movie version of Little Me, which Gene Kelly will direct and produce for Joe Levine. In the Broadway musical, Side Street played all the six lovers, but having six different males for Carroll will bolster the sex symbol image that was started in Baby Doll nine years ago, and picked up in a quite different way in The Carpetbaggers.

Someone must have been joking when they mentioned Connie Stevens for the young wife in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf. . . . In New York they are saying that Sandy Dennis, star of Any Wednesday, will probably land the role with George Segal as her young husband. George is the new Newman type star in King Rat. On stage, Uta Hagen and Arthur Hill had been married for 20 years when the curtain went up. Obviously this will be changed for Miss Taylor and Mr. Burton.

Tony Richardson is thinking in terms of Peter O'Toole for his Charge of the Light Brigade film on celluloid. It should be good news to his producer, Marty Ross, that Tony is going around saying, "The loved one" is "a disaster." I heard him say this very thing after the opening night in London of Tom Jones which as you know was a smash hit. Until the verdict is in from the paying customers, Tony regards EVERYTHING as "a disaster."

Tony Quinn laughs at actors who try to look younger than they really are. He deliberately added 30 years to his age for his fascinating portrayal in Zorba. Bette Davis is another star who ages when the role calls for it. And Josephine Baker in Easy Street will be something like 50 for one scene, and in Marriage Italian Style she makes up to look 42.

not many spots on earth anymore where the Major Vaughans can live like this. I asked him if it were a fulfilling life, being an English planter so far from his beloved London.

"Well, I'm 60 years old," he said. "Yes, it's fulfilling because I have something to do. But if I were 40 years younger, I'd be very frustrated. Not many young people come out any more."

"Come out," the time-honored English phrase for leaving England. London is the centre of the universe. Everything else is "out there."

The major will tell you that he hasn't made a dollar out of his plantation, but this is widely doubted. He runs a tight ship, one of the neatest and most efficient plantations around.

One of the sidelines is a tour of the grounds. Six thousand people a year pay $1 apiece to sit on a comfortable, tractor-drawn cart and listen to the guide whose chatter is well worth $4 alone.

In the course of my discourse, if you have a question, you must speak up," he said. "We learned that the acre when wedded with coffee is our national dish," that bananas grow "heavenwards," that "man can go to the moon, but he can't penetrate the mystery of the banana," and that there is no season on banana and coconut farming. "Banana and coconut is like death every day of the year."

Then we drove down the hill through the dim green vastness of banana and palm, lit with flashes of red fire from the flowering maize tree, past an occasional blade of bougainvillea, past lines of graceful young girls wearing their blue and pink and magenta cotton dresses, carrying bunches of bananas on their heads, under a brilliant blue sky dotted with white clouds. You can get drunk on the colors in this place.

Then we were back in Ocho Rios—sea, sand, heat, humidity, and tourists, a different world altogether.

STAN DELAPLANE Writes from Ireland About—

A Turrible Controversy

The old abbey, burned by Cromwell's soldiers, lies at the end of the grey street in Ennis in County Clare.

"Wander down," said Eddie, the night porter at the hotel, "and likely you'll hear a story. For surely they grow weary of telling the same ones to each other."

It is cold here, close to the Shannon now. And this morning there was a rim of gleaming snow between the gold and blue of the airport.

At the Garda—the police station—they lend you the key. And you let yourself in the iron gate before the roodless grey walls of the old Franciscan friary.

He was an elderly man leaning on the bridge rail across the street. But he hurried over and looked me up and down from the corner of an eye.

"I'm just lookin' up a gravestone," he said, "for there's a turrible controversy about it."

"What is the controversy?" I asked.

"Ah, there's a story to be sure. There's O'Brien Kings of Thomond lie buried here in the cold dark tomb. Now they bury the good people out of Drom-cliffe. But when I was a small lad, they buried even the commoners here."

"Have you been up in the tower?"

"I said I had. The way is up a circular narrow passage. You come out on an unprotected edge that chills your stomach."

"I took a foreign priest up the year last," he said. "Standing on the edge, I was, 'Come out, Father, I say, for it's a grand view.' 'Not I,' says the Father, he says, 'for I'll risk neither my mortal neck nor my immortal soul.'"

"Was that the turrible controversy?" I said. "Going out on the edge?"

"Ah, no," he said. "The controversy now was about the grave of Michael Considine. Mickey, they called him, and a great patriot."

"There was another Father hereabouts and a good Irishman. It was in a speech he gave in a patriotic society. The great Mickey, he says, was buried at Drom-cliffe."

"'Beggin' your pardon, Father,' says I to him. 'Mickey, rest his soul, lies in the abbey grounds. I've made a research of the facts,' he says. 'And I'm convinced he lies at Drom-cliffe.'"

"It caused a turrible controversy," said the Irishman. "Do you see the stone window in the wall? And the cross in front? That's where Mickey lies buried."

"How did you find this out?" I said. "Is his name written on the stone?"

"When I was a lad," he said, "they buried them all in here. Some of the fine boys would climb into the tower and give the bell a pull for the departed soul."

"But that's not the point of it all," he said. "For I well remember when they were diggin' away the ruins in the very same spot below the cross."

"Not a bone did they find," he said, letting his voice drop to a dramatic whisper. "But below the cross with the Considine name they found the skull!"

"The skull?"

"The skull, indeed," he said. "The emblem of death itself pointing out that it was Mickey's skull grave. It was Mickey's skull surely."

"And that settled the controversy?"

"A week later," he said, ignoring the question, "the Father came to me. His hat in his hand, I've done more research in a scholarly fashion," he says to me, "and yer right. 'Tis in the abbey that Mickey lies buried."

"With his hat in his hand," said the Irishman, "he came to present his apologies. And that ended the turrible controversy."

Mrs. Boynton collared by policeman

66 King Followers Arrested

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A club-carrying sheriff arrested 62 Negroes Tuesday when they sought to enter the county courthouse through the front door to seek registration as voters.

Four others, including a Negro businesswoman and one-time candidate for the U.S. Congress — Mrs. Amelia Boynton — were arrested earlier as Negroes led by Dr. Martin Luther King continued their new civil rights campaign launched successfully here Monday.

King went immediately to U.S. justice department officials here with a request for intervention in hope of getting some Negroes registered and a court order to prevent Sheriff Jim Clark from interfering further.

Meanwhile, in Tuscaloosa, home of the University of Alabama, six restaurants lowered century-old racial barriers Tuesday and served Negroes seeking a test of the U.S. Civil Rights Act.

A city judge dealt 60 days at hard labor and $100 fine to Jimmy George Robinson, a

Only Island Dinner

Courtenay Will Fete Bennett the 'Oldtimer'

COURTENAY — A Vancouver Island testimonial dinner for Premier Bennett, similar to others planned on the B.C. mainland this winter, is scheduled here at 7 p.m. March 10.

Formal announcement of the much-tumored event was made Tuesday by Courtenay-Cornox Chamber of Commerce president Charles Pearce.

The reason for the dinner is that the premier will in February achieve the distinction of having held office longer than any other B.C. premier.

The result of the dinner will be a bursary or scholarship and officials hope to raise $4,000 from the 500 people who will come to Courtenay for the event.

A committee has been formed of representatives of Island communities and the Sunshine Coast section of the mainland to organize the dinner and scholarship award.

The chairman is Mr. Pearce, and his committee members will be two representatives each from the Courtenay-Cornox, Cumberland and Campbell River Chambers of Commerce.

Another group working on the scholarship or bursary will be headed by Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan. His aides will be Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan and Mayor Kathleen Grouhel of Ladysmith.

Nanaimo in 50 Years Bigger Than Victoria

NANAIMO — Nanaimo should surpass Victoria in population within 50 years, says provincial archivist Dr. Willard Ireland.

Speaking to a service club, he said Vancouver did not begin to pass Victoria in population until 1909 and "now I think it will probably happen again."

Scurrahs Unhurt In Crash

CAMPBELL RIVER — No one was injured Monday morning when a car carrying former Victoria mayor Percy Scurrah and his wife was involved in a collision near Black Creek, 20 miles south of here.

A car driven by Mr. Scurrah's daughter, Mrs. Gordon Jennings of Campbell River, struck another driven by Black Creek farmer Tom Buchmeier as he pulled out of a driveway.

A Scurrah grandchild was in the Jennings car and Mr. Buchmeier was accompanied by his wife Ursula and two children, Susan, 4, and Gary 15 months.

And he added Nanaimo "will probably become the commercial capital of the Island."

Dr. Ireland also said he thinks Sir James Douglas was "confused" in 1854 when he gave Island Indians treaty hunting and fishing rights.

AS GOVERNOR

He signed the treaty as governor of Vancouver Island when he should have done so as top official of the Hudson's Bay Co., which owned the land.

This "confusion" has led to a court case involving two Nanaimo Indians, which the Indians won in B.C. Appeal Court but which the crown is taking to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Museum Plans Varied

The Maritime Museum of British Columbia may embark on a research program, museum curator-director Col. J. W. D. Symons told the Kiwanis Club of Victoria North Tuesday.

He said the research would be primarily into the maritime history of the Pacific Northwest and added, "I don't see why we shouldn't publish the results every once in a while."

Col. Symons also listed a number of museum programs he hoped to see in the near future:

- Exhibits for visitors participation, where the visitor must pull an arm, push a handle or open a drawer.
- Frequent changes of exhibits to ensure freshness of material, including travelling exhibits.
- Special programs, like model shipbuilding courses, to attract Victorians to the museum.
- Portable exhibitions to take the exhibits to those unable to come to the museum.
- Sponsorship of the reprinting of out-of-print books on maritime history.
- Promotion of a plan to ensure more active participation by members of the Maritime Museum of B.C. Society which supports the museum.

Col. Symons felt a museum should not be a dull and musty place and said every effort would be made to make the Maritime Museum "bright and cheerful."

Reeve Cox Chairman Of Planners

Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay was elected chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board at the January meeting on Tuesday.

Victoria alderman Millard Mooney will be vice-chairman for 1965.

Following the meeting Tuesday members of the board adjourned to the Union Club for their annual dinner.

The 1965 budget for the board was approved and will be submitted to the municipalities for their consideration.

Members of the traffic consultation committee, which recently considered the final draft of an area traffic report, long under consideration, reported to the board Tuesday.

Fifty Years Of Kiwanis

Fifty years of Kiwanis will be celebrated by the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club at 6:15 p.m. Thursday in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Kiwanis Pacific Northwest lieutenant-governor Don Johnson, of the Oak Bay club, will preside over the golden anniversary ceremonies and guests will include Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox and Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis.

Club Installs New Officers

The Oak Bay United Church Men's Club held an installation of officers Monday at a dinner meeting in the church parlor.

The officers are Alex Hall, president; Clarke Gilbert, vice-president; Hector Tapp, secretary, and George Marshall, treasurer.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unwanted fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naras Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naras Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves if reducible pounds and inches of neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bulk disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Red Test

Blast Clouds A-Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States announced Tuesday it had detected radioactivity in the air as a result of Russia's big underground explosion Friday. It asked the Soviets for a "full explanation."

The announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission said "the amount of radioactivity measured to date will not produce measurable exposures to persons." But in light of possible effects on the nuclear test ban treaty, Secretary of State Rusk called in Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to seek information on the test.

NO DETAILS

Aside from the fact that Mr. Dobrynin was asked for the "full explanation," there was no immediate report on details of his afternoon session with Mr. Rusk.

Underground tests as such are not prohibited under the test ban treaty. But U.S. officials said that since the treaty's big aim was to keep the atmosphere clear of nuclear debris, the Soviet blast technically might be a violation of the pact since radioactivity escaped from it.

The treaty was signed by the United States, Britain, Russia and more than 100 other nations in August, 1963. It specifically prohibits nuclear testing in the atmosphere, in space and underwater.

"INTERMEDIATE"

Friday's Soviet blast, in the Semipalatinsk area of Asia, was a monstrous one. The AEC Tuesday night estimated its explosive power in the "intermediate" range, equalling from 200,000 tons to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC statement said, "The United States detection system has now detected a certain amount of venting connected with the test."

"Venting" is the release of radioactivity into the atmosphere from an underground test.

OVER PACIFIC

U.S. officials said atmospheric radioactivity from the explosion was detected by U.S. air sampling over the Northern Pacific.

Technically, they said, this would be a violation of the test ban treaty. But they said the United States would await further information before deciding whether to formally claim a violation.

U.S. officials said the venting could have been an accident, since it means that radioactivity from an underground explosion breaks through the surface into the atmosphere.

But Talkers Join Balcer

Backbenchers Swing Behind Diefenbaker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Back-bench support for John Diefenbaker's continued leadership of the Progressive Conservative party piled up Tuesday in interviews with Conservative MPs.

But leading figures among the party's more articulate members joined the 10 Quebec Conservatives led by Leon Balcer in urging the party to hold a full-dress convention to resolve its internal dissension over leadership and policy.

CALLING DISGRACEFUL

Gordon Churchill, a staunch Diefenbaker supporter and the party's House leader in the Commons, said the way the MPs are sounding off to the press is disgraceful, and the issues should be settled in the privacy of a caucus meeting.

He was referring to a flurry of interviews given by Conservative MPs scattered across the country and the speeches some of them have made since Gordon Aiken (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) said last week at Waterloo, Ont., both Mr. Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Pearson should quit as party leaders.

A survey by the Canadian Press showed 24 MPs supporting Mr. Diefenbaker's continued leadership and six wanting a new leader, one of the latter qualifying his remarks. Ten who were interviewed were non-committal or would not comment.

30 WERE OPPOSED

On the question of whether or not a full-dress convention should be held, 30 were opposed or said they saw no need for one. Nine joined the 10 Quebecers in the convention call. It was known, however, four and possibly six of the Quebecers continue to support Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership even though they joined in the caucus statement calling for a convention.

Among non-Quebec MPs calling for a new leader in addition to Mr. Aiken and Douglas Harkness, the former defence minister who broke with Mr. Diefenbaker in 1963 on the nuclear arms issue, are R. G. L. Fairweather (Royal), Gerald W. Baldwin (Peace River), and Herbert Smith (Simcoe North). S. J. Enns (Portage-Neepawa) qualified his remarks in favor of a new leader.

There are 36 Conservatives in the 265-member Commons. Mr. Churchill, MP for Winnipeg South Centre, said some of those who now are speaking out were silent in caucus meetings.

Dalton Won't Say 'And Same to You'

TORONTO (CP)—Dalton Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, cautioned members of his party Tuesday to be silent on the leadership controversy.

"As far as I'm concerned, I have nothing to say at this time," he said. "I'd recommend the same to anyone who asks."

He also declined to say what procedure, if any, is being used to poll opinion within the party on whether John Diefenbaker should be replaced as leader.

Great Old Warrior 'Amazingly Valiant'

Sleep Eases Stout Fight

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill slept through the day Tuesday, clinging tenaciously to life while the Archbishop of Canterbury called for prayers for the great warrior "as he approaches death."

The 90-year-old statesman put up what doctors called an amazingly valiant fight for the fifth day.

Lord Moran, his lifetime friend and physician, announced shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday that Churchill had slept throughout the day with no appreciable change in his condition.

Out for Drive

Lady Churchill, maintaining an almost unceasing vigil, had asked the huge throngs of reporters, broadcasters and spectators outside the Churchill residence to disperse because the clamor and the television lights had become a severe strain.

Earlier in the day, Lady Churchill, 79, went for a drive for almost an hour. This was only the second time she had been out since last Friday.

Prime Minister Wilson postponed a visit to West Germany. He was to have left Thursday.

Lord Avoa, who as Sir Anthony Eden succeeded Churchill as prime minister in 1955, visited the Churchill home for nearly half an hour Tuesday.

Surgery Blast Is Fatal

TORONTO (CP)—An inquest was ordered Tuesday into the death of Agnes Racz who died Tuesday after an anesthetic apparatus exploded while she was undergoing surgery in St. Michael's Hospital.

An autopsy showed Mrs. Racz, 46, of Clarkson, Ont., died of blast injuries to the lungs.

A mixture of oxygen and cyclopropane gas was being used when the explosion occurred Friday, causing a back-blast down the tubes from the containers into the patient's lungs.

Cause of the blast is being investigated by the Ontario Fire Marshal's office.

Bulldozer Dislodges Rifleman

ASHAHIKA, Idaho (AP)—A rifle-packing man was subdued Tuesday night after he shot a deputy sheriff serving an eviction notice and held-off a dozen officers for 10 hours in his barricaded cabin.

Earl Phipps, 63, still clinging to his 30.06 rifle and carrying a bedroll, was surrounded by deputies and state police as he ran from his cabin when a bulldozer pounded down his front door.

Officers, with weapons drawn, disarmed him.

Phipps was taken to a state hospital at nearby Orofino.

Smoking Drops

OTTAWA (CP)—Smoking in December showed a 7.4 per cent decrease compared with November, figures released by the bureau of statistics indicated Tuesday.

Masson

$60,000 FUND FOR GRIT AID

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Masson, a self-styled militant Liberal, swore Tuesday that $50,000 or $60,000 was raised for the Liberal party election fund to prevent the extradition of Lucien Rivard, a suspect in a narcotics smuggling case.

He testified at the Dorion judicial inquiry that this information was given him by Robert Gignac, now charged with murder, and he passed it along June 22 to Raymond Denis, at that time executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay.

Masson, a hefty balding 35-year-old testified under the Canada Evidence Act guarantee that his words would not be used to prosecute him except in case of perjury.

MEETING REFUSED

He said Denis, who left the government post about last Oct. 1, suggested Masson see Senator Louis Gelin, whom Masson described as the Liberal party treasurer.

He had tried to make an appointment with Senator Gelin, who had refused to see him after being told the matter involved a businessman caught up in a narcotics case.

'FERVENT LIBERAL'

Masson, who described himself a "fervent Liberal" and chief Liberal organizer in Chamby riding in 1960, told of at least 13 telephone calls or visits with Denis between June 22 and some time last August about the Rivard case.

Rivard is in Bordeaux Jail awaiting the decision of Canadian courts on legal efforts to prevent his extradition to the United States to face charges connected with dope smuggling for the Mafia crime syndicate.

RAISED $60,000

Mrs. Rivard, who burst into tears during testimony earlier in the day, has sworn she raised $60,000 cash from a gatekeeper, a grocer, an innkeeper and a bank within a week of her husband's arrest.

Leaping Leafs Only Nine Out

One month ago Victoria Maple Leafs were in last place in the six-team Western Hockey League. 21 points behind the leading club. Today they're third, just nine points behind the leaders.

Leafs took third place last night, beating Seattle Totems, 5-1, at Memorial Arena, while Portland defeated Vancouver by the same score in Vancouver. See stories on Page 8.

Political Unity

France, Germany Forge New Plan

PARIS (CP)—France and West Germany have agreed on a plan for relaunching talks for the setting up of a European political union, sources said Tuesday night.

The agreement came after three hours of talks between West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and French President Charles de Gaulle.

The plan, which it was understood will soon be submitted to the other European Common Market nations—Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—calls for experts to work out proposals and for a conference of the six foreign ministers some time in March.

REUNIFICATION

Both governments, it was learned, also will support a program for the further simultaneous development of the Common Market in the agricultural and industrial fields.

There also was a large measure of agreement on the conditions upon which an eventual reunification of Germany must depend, the sources said.

The two leaders were also expected to dwell at length on defence.

PLACE IN NATO

The issue focused on West Germany's place in a NATO or European nuclear shield—West Germany's relationship to a NATO nuclear force and to the budding French "force de frappe."

De Gaulle is urging West German support for a strictly "European Europe" which would have its own defence and foreign policies, fully independent of the United States, under the protection of the purely French nuclear deterrent. De Gaulle has pledged that the "force de frappe" would be placed at Europe's disposal, but still under French control and command.

Islander's Switch Was Capital Idea

NANAIMO (CP)—Provincial archivist Willard Ireland says Nanaimo was really in blame for the shift in the provincial capital from New Westminster to Victoria in the 1870s.

He told the story to a smiling service club audience here. He said a Nanaimo MLA, who was a magistrate, had the deciding vote in the legislature on the capital switch.

An Irishman named Cox, knowing this, took the MLA, named Franklyn, to certain establishments up and down New Westminster's Columbia Street on the day of the vote.

When Franklyn came to read his speech in the legislature—favoring keeping the capital in New Westminster—Ireland said in a clouded state.

When he became confused and took his glasses off, Cox squeezed the lenses out of them, said Dr. Ireland.

And in a complete state of confusion by this time, Franklyn voted for Victoria.

The Quiet Revolution In English Canada

By PETER DESBARATS

Last of a Series

For the last four years Canadians have been even more fascinated than usual by the idea that their country is falling apart.

Two systems are concerned: one is the separation in Quebec and confusion in Ottawa. Quebec seemed to be drifting away from Canada, while English Canada itself drifted helplessly, no hand on the helm, no flag on the mast, toward the nightmare of annexation to the United States.

It is now becoming evident exactly the opposite was occurring. In the last four years, for the first time since Confederation, Quebec has moved of its own accord into the orbit of the other provinces. And all the provinces have moved into a tighter orbit around Ottawa.

There is more actual unity in Canada today than ever before.

This is the clear impression from recent interviews in Ottawa and six provincial capitals.

Almost without realizing it, Canadians have been creating a new Confederation based on a new concept of national government.

The process is well advanced. Its implications are enormous.

The two symptoms which worried most Canadians, separatism and weakening of the central government, have been merely reverse images of twin developments which are the foundation blocks of the new Confederation.

Separatism in Quebec was an inevitable but secondary part of the quiet revolution in French Canada.

It would have been surprising if it had not emerged at a time when Quebecers were questioning almost all established institutions.

Of much greater importance is the fact that Quebec, while toying with separatism, in fact committed itself to a new destiny. This process began long before the new wave of separatism and reached the stage of concrete action after the Lesage government took office.

It has been obscured for English Canada by the separatist scare, but politicians in English Canada today are well aware of its importance.

Since 1960, Quebec has been a going North American at a fantastic clip. It has realized the old road of defensive nationalism was leading French Canada toward oblivion.

It has accepted economic de-

Rink Bid
Spurs
Board
Proposal

NANAIMO—A request for a new curling rink, made to city council Monday night, has prompted an alderman to urge a consolidation of recreational facilities in this area.

The request came from Nanaimo Curling Club president D. R. Rafter and included six proposals for the construction of a new rink and five suggestions for a site.

LIKE SCHOOL BOARD

Ald. Bus MacDonald, moving that the request be discussed by council at a closed meeting, said it was too bad recreational facilities of the town could not be consolidated under a recreation board which would operate like a school board.

In this way, he said, taxpayers outside the city who use recreational facilities would participate in their financing through taxes.

ONLY HOPE

Mr. Rafter's letter to council said, "Our present rink has reached the saturation point . . . because of limited space . . . the growth of our city and district, and the growth in the popularity of curling."

"Our only hope to combat the problem is to enlarge our facilities and the most satisfactory and economical method of doing this is the construction of a new curling rink."

OLDEST FACILITIES

"We find ourselves in the peculiar position of having the greatest number of ardent curlers and also the oldest and poorest facilities on Vancouver Island."

The construction proposals:

- The city would buy the Wall Street building for $35,000, or $28,000 without the ice equipment, and use the rink for minor hockey and junior skating to ease the arena's load.

- The city would build a new curling rink and finance it by selling it to the club over an agreed period of time.

- The city would build and own a new rink and lease it to the club on a long-term basis.

- The city and club would split the $180,000 construction cost with the club paying its half through sale of memberships, and the club would repay the city loan from operating profits.

- The city would grant the club $30,000 for construction.

- The city would lease the present building for five years at $6,000 a year, after which the rink would become city property.

LEASE REQUESTED

The club asked for a 99-year lease on the five land suggestions:

- Bowen Park near Quaterway.

- Exhibition Park.

- Behind the present building and facing Comox Road, providing there is road access and the lacrosse box is removed.

- Any suggestion the city has to offer.

- The present site if the building is demolished.

Council also granted $200 for materials and equipment to the Nanaimo and District Fish and Game Protective Association which had asked for $400.

Jury Frees
Comox Man
In Assault

NANAIMO—A County Court jury which deliberated less than 30 minutes Tuesday acquitted Comox resident Harold Pedersen, 28, of a charge of indecent assault.

He pleaded innocent and was found not guilty in a Sept. 12 Comox incident involving an 18-year-old Vancouver girl.

Sharing the Load

Heading for legislature session which opens in Victoria Thursday, Opposition Leader Strachan and wife leave home in Nanaimo suburb of Cedar. Mrs. Strachan says her family has at last grown big enough so she can stay in Victoria for duration of session for first time.—(Agnes Flett)

Own Hall

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—The first Duncan Teen Town, formed only last Dec. 15, plans to go on from its first successful event last Saturday to eventual construction of its own hall.

The organization of 50 youngsters ranging in age from 13 to 19 is the brainchild of Korean War veteran Jim Quaife, 30, of Cowichan Station, who says, "I always wanted to start a Teen Town here."

Mr. Quaife, now a mechanic at the Crofton pulp mill, started to work with young people when, as a member of the Canadian army, he organized film shows for Korean children.

He organized the Dec. 15 meeting, which was attended by 126 people, and became adult supervisor for the 50 paid-up members who elected their own council.

Mayor Don Fee is assisted by deputy mayor Rick Haslam, city clerk Sue Falconberg, treasurer Gay La Rose, city engineer Don Sonderquist, several aldermen and volunteer workers like Janice Falconberg.

The first success was a dance last Saturday attended by 280 boys and girls in Duncan Elementary gym. Mr. Quaife says "there was no trouble whatsoever."

Encouraged by the dance, the Teen Town plans a sweetheart dance Feb. 13 in the same gym. The Cowichan school board Monday night, giving the Teen Town its support, decided the gym will be provided free to the youngsters on a monthly basis if activities are suitably supervised.

Eventually the Teen Towners want to join the B.C. association and build a hall on a leased piece of land.

Mr. Quaife, father of a small boy, hopes the group will grow to 400 members.

Sports activities will be added when money is available for equipment but the most important thing, he says, is education in the principles of democracy and civic government by trial and error.

"The Teen Town will take a lot of youngsters off the streets," he says. "I feel the teen-agers should be given a certain amount of responsibility so they will learn how to fend for themselves in a decent way."

He criticized some adults who feel teen-agers must be told what to do.

"These people forget teen-agers are individuals who also have a right to express themselves," says Mr. Quaife. "I would rather work with young people . . . they are much more enthusiastic."

A native of England who first moved to Canada in 1939, he was formerly connected with the Teen Town in Crofton.

He says the teen-agers plan and organize all the activities—he gives advice only occasionally.

Life Hardly Sheepish

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD—Life's just one exciting experience after another for the family of sheep rancher Robert Akerman.

His daughter Roberta, a Hudson's Bay Co. office worker in Ocean Falls, was one of several hundred people who fled to safety during the recent slide there.

She was staying in a home below the mountain and escaped to the Ocean Falls hotel before moving in later with friends.

Miss Akerman said the slide came only a few houses from her. She phoned her parents at 7 o'clock the morning of the slide to say she was safe and described the slide as very exciting—and frightening.

Later last week, her brother Ted shot a 7½-foot cougar in the Cowichan Lake area. He was hunting with Rod Pallester of that district when his cougar found Pearl treed the largest male cat.

Simple Acceptance Suggested
For Closer White-Indian Ties

DUNCAN—A plea for better relations between whites and Indians was spiced with some pointed criticisms when a former Vancouver newspaperwoman made a guest speech Monday night before the Duncan Rotary Club.

Miss Kay Cronin, now editor of the Catholic publication Oblate News and author of a missionary history of the Oblate fathers in B.C., pointed out:

- Indians still have to wait until the last to receive attention in the office of one Duncan doctor.

- She has yet to see an Indian youngster who behaves like a smart aleck.

- She could not see any Indians among the Rotarians.

Indians in Canada are merely accepted on the surface, said Miss Cronin. One evidence of real acceptance would be membership in the Rotary Club.

She said complete integration is not necessarily desired by the Indians but both races would be well advised to respect each other's qualities.

Although Indians have an "incredibly deep sense of inferiority," they can withstand much more suffering than whites and they are blessed with humility so often lacking in the white man's society.

Miss Cronin said one Cowichan Indian once told her he wished the white man would listen when Indians talk.

He also said, "We welcome them (whites) as trespassers in this land, but the white man should remember Indians are part of this community because Duncan's economy would suffer without the Indian trade."

Her suggestions to bring whites and Indians closer together included a new kind of Indian affairs committee. It would consist of Indians and officials from various agencies, including health and welfare, police, probation, education and the Indian affairs branch.

Miss Cronin also urged some soul-searching by Duncan businessmen who should ask their consciences if they are discriminating against Indians.

Campbell River Issue

Merger Foes Unite
Against 'Illegalities'

By JOY HUNTLEY

CAMPBELL RIVER—Opponents of the campaign to form and expand a district municipality here have banded together in a group they have named the Citizens' Rights Organization.

Members who approved the name at a recent meeting also appointed Kenneth Forde as president, Tom Hudson as secretary, William Peligren as assistant secretary and Ben Fellows as treasurer.

An official statement from the group says its purpose is "to protect the rights of the people and the organization will continue even after the municipality is dissolved."

Mr. Forde, a garage owner, and Mr. Hudson, a farmer, have been the chief spokesmen for some weeks in a drive to have the Dec. 12 vote on a district municipality reversed.

Campbell River voted yes by a huge margin while the northern half of Willow Point was slightly in favor, the southern half and Oyster were solidly opposed and Quinsam and North Campbell River voted no by slim margins.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell, also the district M.L.A. formed a municipality out of Campbell River and north Willow Point before Dec. 31 and ordered a new vote by Quinsam and North Campbell River Feb. 6.

NDP Support Offered

The Citizens' Rights leaders feel Mr. Campbell acted illegally in the way in which the Dec. 12 vote was called.

Mr. Forde and Mr. Hudson recently made a trip to Victoria to seek legal advice and say they "found out everything the municipal affairs department has done has been illegal."

"They hope to introduce new legislation at the forthcoming session to make it legal," the two men say. "Are we going to stand for this kind of government?"

The two leaders also say they have been offered support by Island NDP members John Squire and Dave Stupich.

The organization has formed committees to circulate copies of protest letters among residents of Willow Point, Quinsam and North Campbell River. The letters have been and will be sent to Premier Bennett and Lieutenant-Governor Peck.

Meanwhile, the Quinsam and North Campbell River members of a study group which recommended the Dec. 12 vote have called a joint ratepayers' meeting for the Eagles' Hall Jan. 27.

They are circulating a letter outlining the consequences if the two areas vote no Feb. 6, and are organizing transportation to the polling booths.

Only Island Dinner

Courtenay Will Fete
Bennett, the 'Oldtimer'

COURTENAY—A Vancouver Island testimonial dinner for Premier Bennett, similar to others planned on the B.C. mainland this winter, is scheduled here at 7 p.m. March 10.

Formal announcement of the much-tumored event was made Tuesday by Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce president Charles Pearce.

The reason for the dinner is that the premier will in February achieve the distinction of having held office longer than any other B.C. premier.

The result of the dinner will be a bursary or scholarship and officials hope to raise $4,000 from the 500 people who will come to Courtenay for the event.

A committee has been formed of representatives of Island communities and the Sunshine Coast section of the mainland to organize the dinner and scholarship award.

The chairman is Mr. Pearce, and his committee members will be two representatives each from the Courtenay-Comox, Cumberland and Campbell River Chambers of Commerce.

Another group working on the scholarship or bursary will be headed by Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan. His aides will be Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan and Mayor Kathleen Grouhel of Ladysmith.

The dinner apparently will be the only one on the island for the premier. Earlier reports said there might be one in Victoria.

'Not One Job Finished'

Building Delays Hit
By Alberni Trustees

PORT ALBERNI—There are completion dates in every one of the contracts in the Alberni district school board's building program and not one of the jobs has been finished, secretary-treasurer A. F. Taylor told the board Monday night.

He spoke during a meeting at which the board discussed construction delays and, in another major issue, refused to express regret over a teacher's departure.

Trustee Douglas Good, concerned over conditions under which students are working while construction proceeds, said: "I'm damned if I know how the kids can have a normal year in Eighth Avenue School."

AFTER HOURS

He suggested contractors be compelled to complete the job outside school hours in the future.

Trustee G. W. Gray noted double-shifting at Gill Elementary, which the board had expected to eliminate by mid-November at the latest, is still going on and said three vacant rooms in other schools might be made available.

District schools superintendent William Gurney said he would do his best to "hurry it up" and felt the new rooms at Gill could be ready in eight to 10 days.

PENALTY CLAUSES

Board officials said the provincial education department feels penalty clauses would not stand up in court unless contracts also include bonus clauses.

And, said Mr. Taylor, the department will not share in additional costs through bonus payments.

The board accepted the resignation of Alberni District Senior Secondary teacher Michael Healy without regret after Mr. Gurney reported Mr. Healy went to Hawaii for Christmas, returned for the new term, then "disappeared" in less than a week.

The action of Mr. Healy, employed since last summer under letter of permit, will be reported to the B.C. Teachers' Federation and the B.C. School Trustees' Association.

Trustees endorsed Mr. Gurney's action in replacing Mr. Healy with a New Zealand girl who happened to be in Vancouver.

The superintendent reported the teacher turnover in the 1963-64 school year was about 30 per cent, mainly because of young teachers who leave to be married.

The board granted leaves of absence for two substitute teachers who plan to be married. A teacher at G. W. Gray Elementary School asked for March 1-6 and a Redford School teacher asked for Feb. 4 and 5.

Mr. Gurney announced the education department has extended Alberni District Senior Secondary's accreditation for three more years, placing it in one of the highest brackets.

The maximum term for accreditation of B.C. schools is four years and most are for only one or two. One privilege linked to accreditation is that of recommending students without final government exams.

Purring Motor Invites
Kitty for Winter Trip

PORT ALBERNI—Mail truck driver Robert Allen, of 123 First Avenue South, made the wintry trip to Uchaleet from here, then lifted the hood to check the motor.

He found his neighbor's Persian kitten perched warm and contented. Kitty made the 63-mile return trip in the cab with the driver.

17 Residents Court
Courtenay Living

COURTENAY—A small expansion of Courtenay beyond the southern city limits is possible, city council was told.

The works committee reported 17 residents have asked for facts and figures on cost if their property is declared part of the city.

Ald. Sandy Strachan said the next move is up to the residents.

SEWER RATES

Council gave the first three readings to a bylaw which will reduce rates for sewer-system users and provide the first readings for a bylaw authorizing an agreement with Comox to set up a dogpound.

Council learned the finance committee is streamlining office procedures by amalgamating bank accounts where possible.

The committee also proposes greater use of data-processing equipment.

Council also:

- Referred to its water committee an application from the Comox Indian band for city water service.

- Learned parking meter receipts totalled $11,972 last year, a 10 per cent increase from 1963.

- Accepted a $4,240 bid from present supplier Home Oil for fuel supplies and a tender of $3,640 from F. B. Stewart and Co. of North Vancouver for a traffic light at Eaton's corner.

- Gave permission for Boy Scout apple day Feb. 4, two winter carnival parades Feb. 4 and 6, and blocking of a street for the Upper Island Sports Car Club gymkhana Feb. 6.

Boys Get Second Chance

DUNCAN—Three juvenile boys were given respective probation terms of 18, nine and six months in juvenile court Tuesday for stealing money from city parking meters last month. The one on 18 months' probation was also put on a 10 p.m. curfew and prohibited from going to town during weekends. In another case, a juvenile boy who admitted driving without a licence got six months' probation and must surrender his car licence plates for the same period.

NANAIMO—Gordon Bell, a fisheries scientist at the Pacific biological station, was elected by acclamation Tuesday night as chairman of the city advisory planning commission. New vice-chairman Earl Fletcher also won without opposition.

DUNCAN—A combined farewell party has been held in Queen of Angels School on Tzouhalem Road for Father Francis Quinlan, formerly of St. Edward's Catholic Church, and Father Louis Viney, former rector of the Catholic parishes at Mill Bay and Shawnigan Lake. Father Viney, who has been transferred to Hope, received a wallet from his two congregations. Father Quinlan, now at St. Ann's Church in Ancaster, Ont., was given a valise.

NANAIMO—The Council of Women here has decided to ask the city to appoint one of its members to the district centennial committee. Council president Mrs. Al Addison says the group would like to have a representative at centennial meetings if there is no more room on the committee.

DUNCAN—An arbitration board has decided unanimously in favor of a chip truck driver suspended recently for four days by a local transportation firm and has awarded him full back pay. The board included Gen. C. A. P. Murison, chairman; Bert Gray, company nominee; Edward Lawson, union nominee; David Williams, company counsellor, and Fernie Viala, union counsellor.

NANAIMO—One or two buses will probably be taken out of service March 1, Nanaimo Transit Co. president David Swithin said Tuesday. He indicated the first to go will be the bus which takes Woodlands area students to the senior secondary school. Mr. Swithin asked some time ago for a subsidy to prevent closure of his firm and city council planned a financial survey.

LONG BEACH—Residents of this area say no one knows how

Courtenay Car Club Picks Best

COURTENAY—Awards for 1964 have been given to members of the Upper Island Sports Car Club at its annual meeting.

Jack Balfour received the president's trophy as the person who did the most to promote the club and motor sport. The winner is selected by ballot.

Bob Kirk was given the club drivers' championship and the rally drivers' award, while Mick Standing received the rally navigators' prize. Douglas Fraser was elected president and 1964 president Vern Vouriot will be vice-president.

Nanaimo in 50 Years Bigger Than Victoria

NANAIMO—Nanaimo should surpass Victoria in population within 50 years, says provincial archivist Dr. Willard Ireland. Speaking to a service club, he said Vancouver did not begin to pass Victoria in population until 1900 and "now I think it will probably happen again."

Scurrahs Unhurt In Crash

CAMPBELL RIVER—No one was injured Monday morning when a car carrying former Victoria mayor Percy Scurrah and his wife was involved in a collision near Black Creek, 20 miles south of here.

A car driven by Mr. Scurrah's daughter, Mrs. Gordon Jennings of Campbell River, struck another driven by Black Creek farmer Tom Buchmeier as he pulled out of a driveway.

A Scurrah grandchild was in the Jennings car and Mr. Buchmeier was accompanied by his wife Ursula and two children, Susan, 4, and Gary 15 months.

Cobble Hill Branch

Extra-Effort Honor Legionnaires' Plan

COBBLE HILL—The Royal Canadian Legion's Cobble Hill branch is going to honor members who have or will devote time and effort to the branch over and above their normal duties.

The branch, at its recent annual installation meeting, approved a suggestion by new president T. A. V. Tremblay that a three-man committee recommend future such awards. Committee members are Bob Calderwood, Jack Turnel and J. S. C. Fraser.

lost a lumber load but no ships have done so.

DUNCAN—Funeral services will be held at 3:15 p.m. today from the Hirst chapel for First World War veteran Walter William Latter, 82, who died Monday in King's Daughters' Hospital following a lengthy illness.

COMOX—Vice-Admiral Kenneth Dyer, chief of personnel at Canadian forces headquarters in Ottawa, will pay an official visit to RCAF Station Comox Jan. 28 during a six-day tour of military establishments in B.C. He will inspect flying units, working areas and station facilities and will address officers and NCOs.

CHEMUNIS—Mrs. Val Rivett-Carnac was re-elected president of the Chemunis hospital women's auxiliary at the recent annual meeting in the Baptist church hall. Other officers are Mrs. Sidney Pratt and Mrs. J. Flester, vice-presidents; Mrs. G. Philipson and Mrs. J. Stark, secretaries, and Mrs. C. G. Saunders, treasurers. Officers of the "candy strippers" youth group are Marion Yaniv, president; Islay Motherwell, vice-president, and Sylvia Bane, secretary-treasurer.

COURTENAY—C. I. Taylor, former schools superintendent in the Courtenay school district and now superintendent for Burnaby, will address the annual dinner of Comox Valley teachers in the Native Sons' Hall at 6:30 p.m. Friday. Mr. Taylor, who recently returned from a one-month tour of Russia and its satellites, will discuss education under Communism.

LAKE COWICHAN—The Chamber of Commerce will elect its 1965 directors at the next general meeting in the Riverside Inn at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday. The election will take place at a dinner meeting, after which the directors will meet to name the executive. The annual dinner and installations due later in February.

ALBERNI—City council has brought down a $752,602 provisional budget, about $25,000 less than last year's record budget. Public works estimates are down $32,000 to $30,320 while health and welfare costs are cut slightly to $105,900.

DUNCAN—East rites will be held from the Hirst chapel at 3 p.m. Friday for Louise Green of the Cherry Point Lodge at Cobble Hill. A Lake Cowichan resident for 54 years, she died there Monday in her 91st year.

UCLEULET—Murray Ralston has been chosen 1965 president of the local Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans unit. Other officers are George Fitzpatrick, vice-president; Cal Loewen, sergeant-at-arms, and executive members Douglas Robson, Lorne Ferraby, Bradley Robinson, Edward Loewen, George Simpson and Harold Chorley.

TORFNO—New district manager here for the B.C. Forest Service is H. Doerksen. He came here from a Forest Service post at Thurston Bay.

NANAIMO—Nanaimo Racing Pigeon Club members won three top awards during the Greater Vancouver racing pigeon show Saturday and Sunday at the PNE. George Naylor came first in the class for pigeons which have been entered in 300-mile races, Walter Zink was second in the 200-mile class and Al Addison sixth in 300-mile class. There were 519 entries from B.C. and Alberta.

DUNCAN—The next general membership meeting of the IWA's Local 1-80 will be held at 10:30 a.m. Jan. 30 in the union headquarters on Brae Road.

Special Trips Ahead For Many Cadets

COMOX—More than 50 B.C. air cadets will receive special trips this year, according to officials who spoke at the recent annual meeting of the civilian sponsoring committees of Island air cadet squadrons.

Five will visit the United Kingdom and Europe this summer as the outstanding cadets in the province.

Another 23 will receive flying scholarships toward achievement of private pilot's licenses and 24 more will attend a senior leaders' course at Camp Borden, Ont.

A total of 600 cadets will attend the summer camp at Nanaimo, Alta., during July and August, going in three groups for two weeks each.

Vancouver Island, which includes Powell River, has seven air cadet squadrons with about 450 members.

Port Mayor:

YMCA Proposal 'Worthwhile'

PORT ALBERNI—The proposal of district Jaycees to establish a YMCA or a family Y in this area has been described by Mayor Les Hammer as "well worthwhile."

He suggested at a meeting of the Alberni Valley winter works committee that the Jaycees discuss their plans with the Twin Cities' parks and recreation commission so duplication of services would not occur.

THE FIRST STEP—Jaycee past president Milt Hepper said a request from a representative group of citizens is the first step toward a Y.

A community study would be conducted to determine the leisure-time needs of young people and an interim committee would be named to continue organizational work.

HELD IN TRUST—Mr. Hepper said the area would have to have $10,000 held in trust and the YMCA would supply a trained secretary to co-ordinate the work.

Winter works committee delegates wondered if a hostel should be included and present Jaycee chief Rick English said the trend is away from Y hostels.

The organization is concentrating on keeping young people busy and out of trouble, he said, but a survey could show a need for a hostel here.

In other matters, Mayor Hammer said centennial project suggestions should be addressed to Post Office Box 267, Port Alberni, before Feb. 28.

OTHER AREAS—The committee learned Tolino has winter works incentive projects for park improvement and watermain installation employing nine men, Ucluelet street and water system work employing 11 men and Cherry Creek improvement district watershed clearing employing 39 men.

Centennial Grants $63,210

Four Vancouver Island areas are among 19 in B.C. advised by the B.C. centennial committee Tuesday they will receive special grants totalling $63,210 this month.

The grants are one-quarter of what eventually will be paid by B.C. toward community administrative and program costs in 1966 and 1967 celebrations. The Island-B.C. union will be celebrated in 1966, the Canadian centenary the next year.

The Island figures are $13,998 for Greater Victoria, $1,220 for Port Alberni, $950 for North Cowichan and $150 for Saltair. The next quarter will be paid next Nov. 1 with the final half due Nov. 1, 1966.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Red Test

Blast Clouds A-Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States announced Tuesday it had detected radioactivity in the air as a result of Russia's big underground explosion Friday. It asked the Soviets for a "full explanation."

The announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission said "the amounts of radioactivity measured to date will not produce measurable exposures to persons." But in light of possible effects on the nuclear test ban treaty, Secretary of State Rusk called in Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to seek information on the test.

NO DETAILS

Aside from the fact that Mr. Dobrynin was asked for the "full explanation" there was no immediate report on details of his afternoon session with Mr. Rusk.

Underground tests as such are not prohibited under the test ban treaty. But U.S. officials said that since the treaty's big aim was to keep the atmosphere clear of nuclear debris, the Soviet blast technically might be a violation of the pact since radioactivity escaped from it.

The treaty was signed by the United States, Britain, Russia and more than 100 other nations in August, 1963. It specifically prohibits nuclear testing in the atmosphere, in space and underwater.

"INTERMEDIATE" Friday's Soviet blast, in the Semipalatinsk area of Asia, was a monstrous one. The AEC Tuesday night estimated its explosive power in the "intermediate" range, equalling from 200,000 tons to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC statement said, "The United States detection system has now detected a certain amount of venting connected with the test."

"Venting" is the release of radioactivity into the atmosphere from an underground test.

But Talkers Join Balcer

Backbenchers Swing Behind Diefenbaker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Backbench support for John Diefenbaker's continued leadership of the Progressive Conservative party piled up Tuesday in interviews with Conservative MPs.

But leading figures among the party's more articulate members joined the 10 Quebec Conservatives led by Leon Balcer in urging the party to hold a full-dress convention to resolve its internal dissension over leadership and policy.

CALLS DISGRACEFUL

Gordon Churchill, a staunch Diefenbaker supporter and the party's House leader in the Commons, said the way the MPs are squabbling off to the press is disgraceful, and the issues should be settled in the privacy of a caucus meeting.

He was referring to a flurry of interviews given by Conservative MPs scattered across the country and the speeches some of them have made since Gordon Aiken (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) said last week at Waterloo, Ont., both Mr. Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Pearson should quit as party leaders.

qualifying his remarks. Ten who were interviewed were non-committal or would not comment.

30 WERE OPPOSED

On the question of whether or not a full-dress convention should be held, 20 were opposed or said they saw no need for one. Nine joined the 10 Quebecers in the convention call. It was known, however, four and possibly six of the Quebecers continue to support Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership even though they joined in the caucus statement calling for a convention.

Among non-Quebec MPs calling for a new leader in addition to Mr. Aiken and Douglas Harkness, the former defence minister who broke with Mr. Diefenbaker in 1963 on the nuclear arms issue, are R. G. L. Fairweather (Royal), Gerald W. Baldwin (Peace River), and Herbert Smith (Simcoe North). S. J. Enns (Portage-Neepawa) qualified his remarks in favor of a new leader.

There are 36 Conservatives in the 265-member Commons. Mr. Churchill, MP for Winnipeg South Centre, said some of those who now are speaking out were silent in caucus meetings.

Dalton Won't Say— 'And Same to You'

TORONTO (CP)—Dalton Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, cautioned members of his party Tuesday to be silent on the leadership controversy.

"As far as I'm concerned, I have nothing to say at this time," he said. "I'd recommend the same to anyone who asks."

He also declined to say what procedure, if any, is being used to poll opinion within the party on whether John Diefenbaker should be replaced as leader.

Great Old Warrior 'Amazingly Valiant'

Sleep Eases Stout Fight

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill slept through the day Tuesday, clinging tenaciously to life while the Archbishop of Canterbury called for prayers for the great warrior "as he approaches death." (See Page 2, also.)

The 90-year-old statesman put up what doctors called an amazingly valiant fight for the fifth day.

Lord Moran, his lifetime friend and physician, announced shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday that Churchill had slept throughout the day with no appreciable change in his condition.

Out for Drive

Lady Churchill, maintaining an almost unceasing vigil, had asked the huge throngs of reporters, broadcasters and spectators outside the Churchill residence to disperse because the clamor and the television lights had become a severe strain.

Earlier in the day, Lady Churchill, 79, went for a drive for almost an hour. This was only the second time she had been out since last Friday.

Prime Minister Wilson postponed a visit to West Germany. He was to have left Thursday.

Lord Avon, who as Sir Anthony Eden succeeded Churchill as prime minister in 1955, visited the Churchill home for nearly half an hour Tuesday.

Surgery Blast Is Fatal

TORONTO (CP)—An inquest was ordered Tuesday into the death of Agnes Racz who died Tuesday after anaesthetic apparatus exploded while she was undergoing surgery in St. Michael's Hospital.

An autopsy showed Mrs. Racz, 45, of Clarkson, Ont., died of blast injuries to the lungs.

A mixture of oxygen and cyclopropane gas was being used when the explosion occurred Friday, causing a back-blast down the tubes from the containers into the patient's lungs.

Cause of the blast is being investigated by the Ontario Fire Marshal's office.

Bulldozer Dislodges Rifleman

ANSAHKA, Idaho (AP)—A rifle-packing man was subdued Tuesday night after he shot a deputy sheriff serving an eviction notice and held-off a dozen officers for 10 hours in his barricaded cabin.

Earl Phipps, 63, still clinging to his 30.06 rifle and carrying a bedroll, was surrounded by deputies and state police as he ran from his cabin when a bulldozer pounded down his front door.

Officers, with weapons drawn, disarmed him.

Phipps was taken to a state hospital at nearby Orofino.

Smoking Drops

OTTAWA (CP)—Smoking in December showed a 7.4 per cent decrease compared with November, figures released by the bureau of statistics indicated Tuesday.

PROBE TOLD OF $60,000 FOR GRIT AID

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Masson, a self-styled militant Liberal, swore Tuesday that $50,000 or $60,000 was raised for the Liberal party election fund to prevent the extradition of Lucien Rivard, a suspect in a narcotics smuggling case.

He testified at the Dorion judicial inquiry that this information was given him by Robert Gignac, now charged with murder, and he passed it along June 22 to Raymond Denis, at that time executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay.

Masson, a hefty balding 35-year-old testified under the Canada Evidence Act guarantee that his words would not be used to prosecute him except in case of perjury.

MEETING REFUSED

He said Denis, who left the government post about last Oct. 1, suggested Masson see Senator Louis Gelin, whom Masson described as the Liberal party treasurer.

He had tried to make an appointment with Senator Gelin, who had refused to see him after being told the matter involved a businessman caught up in a narcotics case.

'FERVENT LIBERAL'

Masson, who described himself as a "fervent Liberal" and chief Liberal organizer in Chamby riding in 1960, told of at least 13 telephone calls or visits with Denis between June 22 and some time last August about the Rivard case.

Rivard is in Bordeaux Jail awaiting the decision of Canadian courts on legal efforts to prevent his extradition to the United States to face charges connected with dope smuggling for the Mafia crime syndicate. He was arrested June 19 at U.S. request.

RAISED $60,000

Mrs. Rivard, who burst into tears during testimony earlier in the day, has sworn she raised $60,000 cash from a gatekeeper, a grocer, an innkeeper and a bank within a week of her husband's arrest.

Leaping Leafs Only Nine Out

One month ago Victoria Maple Leafs were in last place in the six-team Western Hockey League, 21 points behind the leading club. Today they're third, just nine points behind the leaders.

Leafs took third place last night, beating Seattle Totems, 5-1, at Memorial Arena, while Portland defeated Vancouver by the same score in Vancouver. See stories on Page 8.

France, Germany Forge New Plan

From Reuters-AP

PARIS (CP)—France and West Germany have agreed on a plan for relaunching talks for the setting up of a European political union, sources said Tuesday night.

The agreement came after three hours of talks between West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and French President Charles de Gaulle.

The plan, which it was understood will soon be submitted to the other European Common Market nations—Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—calls for experts to work out proposals and for a conference of the six foreign ministers some time in March.

REUNIFICATION

Both governments, it was learned, also will support a program for the further simultaneous development of the Common Market in the agricultural and industrial fields.

There also was a large measure of agreement on the conditions upon which an eventual reunification of Germany must depend, the sources said.

The two leaders were also expected to dwell at length on defence.

PLACE IN NATO

The issue focused on West Germany's place in a NATO or European nuclear shield—West Germany's relationship to a NATO nuclear force and to the budding French "force de frappe."

De Gaulle is urging West German support for a strictly "European Europe" which would have its own defence and foreign policies, fully independent of the United States, under the protection of the purely French nuclear deterrent. De Gaulle has pledged that the "force de frappe" would be placed at Europe's disposal, but still under French control and command.

Islander's Switch Was Capital Idea

NANAIMO (CP)—Provincial architect Willard Ireland says Nanaimo was really to blame for the shift in the provincial capital from New Westminster to Victoria in the 1870s.

He told the story to a smiling service club audience here. He said a Nanaimo MLA, who was a magistrate, had the deciding vote in the legislature on the capital switch.

An Irishman named Cox, knowing this, took the MLA, named Franklyn, to certain establishments up and down New Westminster's Columbia Street on the day of the vote.

When Franklyn came to read his speech in the legislature—favoring keeping the capital in New Westminster—he was in a clouded state.

When he became confused and took his glasses off, Cox squeezed the lenses out of them, said Dr. Ireland.

And in a complete state of confusion by this time, Franklyn voted for Victoria.

The Quiet Revolution In English Canada

By PETER DESSARATS

Last of a Series

For the last four years Canadians have been even more fascinated than usual by the idea that their country is falling apart.

Two symptoms concerned them—separatism in Quebec and confusion in Ottawa. Quebec seemed to be drifting away from Canada, while English Canada itself drifted helplessly, no hand on the helm, no flag on the mast, toward the nightmare of annexation to the United States.

It is now becoming evident exactly the opposite was occurring. In the last four years, for the first time since Confederation, Quebec has moved of its own accord into the orbit of the other provinces. And all the provinces have moved into a tighter orbit around Ottawa.

There is more actual unity in Canada today than ever before. This is the clear impression from recent interviews in Ottawa and six provincial capitals. Almost without realizing it, Canadians have been creating a new Confederation based on a new concept of national government.

The process is well advanced. Its implications are enormous.

The two symptoms which worried most Canadians, separatism and weakening of the central government, have been merely reverse images of twin developments which are the foundation blocks of the new Confederation.

Separatism in Quebec was an inevitable but secondary part of the quiet revolution in French Canada.

It would have been surprising if it had not emerged at a time when Quebecers were questioning almost all established institutions.

Of much greater importance is the fact that Quebec, while toying with separatism, in fact committed itself to a new destiny. This process began long before the new wave of separatism and reached the stage of concrete action after the Lesage government took office.

It has been obscured for English Canada by the separatist

scare, but politicians in English Canada today are well aware of its importance.

Since 1960, Quebec has been going North American at a fantastic clip. It has realized the old road of defensive nationalism was leading French Canada toward oblivion.

It has accepted economic de-
